This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

The Handsomest Travel Book of the Year

BRITISH HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS FROM A MOTOR CAR

From Page's List

By Thomas D. Murphy. Illustrated in colors (boxed) $3.00

The gratifying re-orders for this book have confirmed our belief that it will be used not only as a guide book, and gift book, but as a standard work on an important subject for public and private libraries.

SECOND EDITION IN PREPARATION

THE MAKING OF PERSONALITY

By Bliss Carman Boxed, $1.50

Because he has written in his fascinating way on a subject of vital interest to everyone, Bliss Carman's new volume of essays is rivalling in general attention and demand the most popular work of fiction. "He has caught the breezy spirit of Robert Louis Stevenson," says CURRENT LITERATURE.

Referring to L. M. Montgomery's

the trade will read with interest the following from a letter to the publishers from one of the best known buyers and one of the most discriminating judges of books in the country.

"My daughter has read ANNE OF GREEN GABLES. If this reader's enthusiasm is any criterion—and by the way she reads almost all the best books of this class—you certainly have a winner."

Yours very truly,
T. EDWARD JONES.

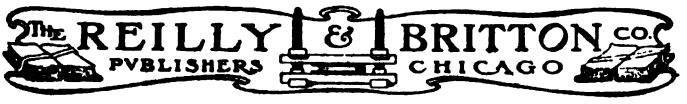
PUBLISHERS - - - - - NEW YORK



¶ Announce to the Trade that a complete sample line of their publications will be shown at the Palmer House Book Fair from July 6th to July 18th.

¶ Also that their full line will be shown after July 15th at their New York headquarters with Hurst & Co., 395 Broadway.

¶ Reilly & Britton books sell because they are well advertised. Your own experience this spring was doubtless similar to that of a customer who writes: " . . even in its third season your 'Girl Graduate; Her Own Book' outsold all other 'commencement' books . . . you certainly advertise the right way."

¶ A number of strong items have been added this season that are unique in point of quality, attractiveness in make-up, and in saleability. Among them are:

DOROTHY AND THE WIZARD IN OZ. By L. Frank Baum. The 1908 "OZ" book—the most beautiful children's book ever published. Many gorgeous full-colored and black-and-white illustrations by John R. Neill. Price, $1.25.

CHILDREN'S STORIES THAT NEVER GROW OLD SERIES. Twenty-four standard and strongest selling juvenile titles. Printed from new large type plates and illustrated in full color by John R. Neill. Every title a fast seller. Price, 20 cents each.

THE BRIDE'S COOK BOOK. Recipes proportioned for two, with instructions for enlarging; full information on all subjects pertaining to the dining-room and kitchen, expressly arranged to serve the needs of the girl bride. Second edition just ready. Price, $2.00.

FORGET-ME-NOTS. An every-day book for everybody in which to make all kinds of memorandums. Illustrated on every page in two colors. Boxed. Price, $1.25.

WHEN GOOD FELLOWS GET TOGETHER. An excellent selection of sentiments expressive of good-fellowship, optimism, uplift and cheerfulness. Printed in two colors on fine paper. Price, $1.00.

TOASTS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW, A comprehensive selection of Toasts, conveniently arranged on unique lines, by Janet Madison. Price, 75 cents.

NOTES IN SEASON.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly another story by René Bazin, entitled "Redemption," the background of which is Nantes.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just received the manuscript of Rosa Nouchette Carey's annual novel, which they will bring out in September. It will be entitled "The Sunny Side of the Hill," and will deal with English country life.

DUFFIELD & CO. have in preparation "The Letters of Edward Lear," the famous author of "The Book of Nonsense," whose principal work was that of a landscape painter. The volume is to be edited by Lady Strachey, and will contain Lear's letters descriptive of his journeys as a painter to Corfu, Mount Athos and Albania.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO. have in preparation a new and cheaper edition, in three volumes, of the Home Library of Law, by Albert S. Bolles. The new edition will be entitled Everyman's Library of Law and will be arranged under three general titles—"The Ownership and Use of Land," "The Ownership and Use of Personal Property," and "The Pledging of Personal Property and Corporations, Domestic Relations and Wrongs." The work is intended for the lay reader seeking advice in legal matters.

B. W. DODGE & CO. have in preparation for the fall Upton Sinclair's new novel, "The Moneychangers." Few readers of "The Metropolis" seem to have suspected that that book was merely an introduction to a series, a trilogy in fact, which is intended to be a presentation of the contemporary business and social life of New York City. "The Moneychangers" carries forward the characters of "The Metropolis" in the development of the main story of the trilogy, a story reaching its climax in the real history of the panic of 1907.

L. C. PAGE & CO. will publish shortly a work on "Servia and the Servians," by Chedo Mijatovich, a vivid account of the religious and social life, the institutions and the traditions of the Servian folk—that interesting and quaint people of which comparatively little is known to the outside world. At the time of the assassination of King Alexander, in 1902, M. Mijatovich was Servian Minister at the Court of St. James. On all Servian affairs he is a recognized authority, and there are few who are as competent as he to tell the story of his countrymen.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY will publish on July 25 "The Motor Rivals," by Percy Megargel and Grace S. Mason, a story of the briskest nature in which love enters as a motive for increased rivalry between two opposed automobile designers who love Betty, the charming daughter of a millionaire manufacturer. Vannucinni, a dashing Italian, has the apparent advantage in both the car and the lady's affections, but Jerry Fleming, an American, stakes everything on the virtues of his own machines, and proposes a race from New York to Portland, Oregon. The story of this race between Vannucinni and Fleming for the hand of Betty is one of the delightful surprises of the year. It is a record, too, of an actual trip, and will appeal to motorists and idealists, and to all who love a good yarn.

Cutting, Mrs. Mary Stewart Doubleday. The wayfarers; il. by Alice Barber Stephens. N. Y., McClure Co., 1908. c. 3-374 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The story of Alexander Justin, a business man of ideal character, who has plodded along in a situation for seven years, working far beyond his strength and his small compensation for the wife and children he fondly loves. With the opening of the story a chance comes to him for independence and perhaps wealth. He is put in charge of a business, but finds himself in the hands of men whose methods are utterly repugnant to him. He refuses to follow their orders and the result is almost destruction to him, financially and physically. Almost on the verge of suicide, he is unexpectedly helped from a source where his honesty has found appreciation.

Daniels, Fred Hamilton. The furnishing of a modest home. Worcester, Mass., Davis Press, 1908. c. 114 p. il. pls. plans, O. cl., $1.

Points out the mischief now done by indiscriminate wedding gifts, which prevent a harmonious plan of furnishing in accordance with the means and tastes of the young home-makers. The director of drawing in the public schools of Springfield, Mass., gave a series of lectures on house furnishing, in which this book had its beginning. He wishes homes to combine "the simplicity of Colonial times, the creature comforts of the 19th century, and the intellectual æsthetic and spiritual atmosphere of the 20th century."

Julie's diary: a personal record. Bost., John W. Luce & Co., 1908. 301 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The writer of the diary is a Copenhagen girl, the daughter of a flower painter and of Professor Holger Hagens. Her diary was a Christmas present from her mother, and she starts it with the intention of writing all her thoughts in it and recording all the events of her life, whether good or bad. The time covered is only a year, but it is rich in incidents. She becomes betrothed to a good man, but not satisfied with this she cultivates the admiration of an actor and gets into rather deep water. Said to be a translation from the Danish.

Kellogg, Vernon Lyman. American insects; with many original il. by Mary Wellman. 2d ed., rev. N. Y., Henry Holt & Co., 1908. c. 14+694 p. Q. (American nature ser.; group 1, Classification of nature.) cl., $5 net, boxed.

The first edition of "American insects" was published in 1904. In this new and revised edition a detailed analytical table of contents has been substituted for the simple list of chapter titles used in the first edition and an additional chapter on the subject of insect behavior and psychology has been added. While descriptive accounts of the reflexes and instincts of insects are to be found on almost every page of the book—insect instinct is indeed one of the primary subjects of the book—the author has believed that a special discussion and attempt at analysis of the springs and control of insect behavior would be of interest to the reader.

Notes are based on a trip to the Indian reservation in the vicinity of Highland, Banning and Indio in Southern California. The specimens described and illustrated were secured for the Museum of the Department of Anthropology of the University of California through the generosity of Mrs. Phœbe A. Hearst. The reservations visited are inhabited by Shoshonean Indians, mainly speaking the Serrano and Cahuilla dialects.

Leroux, Gaston. The mystery of the yellow room: extraordinary adventures of Joseph Rouletabille, reporter. N. Y., Brentano's, 1908. c. 6+307 p. front. D. cl., †$1.50.

A French reporter is the central figure in a mysterious murder case. He successfully plays the amateur detective, solving with extraordinary cleverness the puzzling details of the seeming murder of a young French woman, who is found locked in her room in a dying condition, having been shot and brutally beaten. She lives in summer in an isolated pavilion next to the laboratory of her father, a celebrated scientist, whose work she takes part in. As she was carefully locked in her room at night the question is how did the murderer reach her and how did he escape, as the doors and windows all appear intact.

Logan, Mrs. Indiana Washington Peddicord. Kelion Franklin Peddicord of Quirk's Scouts, Morgan's Kentucky Cavalry, C. S. McDonald, Raymond. The mad scientist: a tale of the future; with which is incorporated a secret cipher for the best solution of which the publishers offer $1,000; il. by C: Beecher Bunnell. N. Y., Cochrane Publishing Co., 1908. c. 6+242 p. D. cl., $1.60.

The mad scientist discovers new powers of Nature, and electrifies the world by his weird achievements—making houses and battleships to sail through the air; causing a man to grow taller and shorter; burning up a lake full of water; stopping all the machinery in a city for an hour—doing a hundred and one mad pranks that upset the public and finally embarking on a career of crime and piracy. The cypher is presented in fifty words. One person may send in several solutions. The astonishing possibilities of modern science are the theme of this imaginative work.

Friday evenings in Harry Miner's Bowery Theatre, N. Y. City, were given over to amateur performances. One Friday night in October, 1903, a very bad amateur became a bore with his "near tenor" voice. Tom Miner deftly hooked him off the stage unseen by most of the audience. Later in the evening a gallery boy, again bored, shouted "Get the hook." The expression has been translated in several languages and is used now in all kinds of business transactions to signify that one of the parties has "had enough."

Morris, Clara. The new "East Lynne": an entirely new and original novel. [N. Y., C. H. Doscher & Co., 1908.] c. 5-326 p. front. D. cl., *$1 net.

"East Lynne" was one of the plays that Clara Morris, the well-known actress and novelist, made a reputation in. Her present story, "The new East Lynne," follows broadly the plot of the former novel. It is the story of a beautiful and good woman who marries a physician. In his home she finds a young ward. The doctor speaks of her as a child, but the wife quickly discovers that Olive Marr is passionately in love with her husband. In course of time she steals the wife's love. A man without a conscience who loves Mrs. Keith drugs her and abducts her. She is reported dead and the lovers marry. Five years later the real Mrs. Keith comes to her old home as governess to her two children, so disfigured however that she believes no one knows her. How the situation ends is left to the reader.

The basis of the plot is a mysterious robbery of the Bank of England. The detectives for a year are unable to find a clue to the money. The scene is then transferred to Monastery Farm in western New York. A young Englishman employed there is suspected. How his feelings are worked upon and he is made to repent and makes restitution, with the capture of another young fellow who was in the plot to rob the bank, is the story.

New Schaff-Herzog encyclopedia of religious knowledge; embracing biblical, historical, doctrinal and practical theology, and biblical, theological and ecclesiastical biography, from the earliest times to the present day; based on the 3d ed. of the Realencyklopadie [für protestantische theologie und kirche] by Johann Jakob Herzog; ed. by Albert Hauck and now in course of publication; prepared by more than 600 scholars and specialists under the supervision of S: Macauley Jackson, D.D., editor-in-chief, C: Colebrook Sherman and G: W: Gilmore. Complete in 12 v. v. 1, Aachen-Basilians. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1908. c. 500 p. Q. cl., $5.

This is a reconstruction of the Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of religious knowledge published in 3 v. in 1882-1884 and revised and published with new material added in 4 v. in 1886. It follows the same general plan as in the old work. Its points of dissimilarity are: 1, It contains much matter furnished directly by those contributors to the German work who have consented to condense their articles to the prescribed limit; 2, It contains hundreds of sketches of living persons derived in almost every instance from matter furnished by themselves; 3, The matter in proof has been sent to persons specially chosen for eminence in their respective departments; 4, A much more thorough bibliography is furnished and references are furnished in English for those who read only that language; 5, All articles based on German originals have been sent in proof to the writers when still living and many have made valuable corrections in the condensations. Charles Colebrook Sherman, the managing editor, is editor in biblical criticism and theology on "The new international encyclopedia," (Dodd, M. & Co.); Prof. George William Gilmore, who has prepared the bibliography, the great novelty of the encyclopedia, was formerly professor of biblical history and lecturer on religion in Bangor Theological Seminary.

In 1901 the Chicago Library Club issued a "List of serials in public libraries of Chicago and Evanston." Shortly after the founding of the Pennsylvania Library Club Mr. Thomas L. Montgomery suggested the publication of a similar list. The cost was assumed by the trustees of the Free Library of Philadelphia. Twenty-two leading libraries of the city and three in its vicinity are represented in the catalogue. The compilation was begun under Mr. Montgomery, but his appointment as State Librarian of Philadelphia took him from it. The trustees fortunately secured the services of John P. Lamberton, who has completed the work. Government publications have been excluded from the list. About 12,012 serials are on record.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 4, 1908.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

OUTSIDE VIEWS OF THE SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

WE print elsewhere what may almost be called a symposium on the relations between publishers and the public, in the excellent statement from The Outlook, the review of the existing status from the London Spectator, and the letter of Colonel Olin, counsel for the American Publishers' Association, in which, for the purpose of correcting certain errors of fact in The Spectator's information, he gives an interesting and informing resumé of the recent legal history of the questions at issue.

It is gratifying to note that such periodicals as The Outlook and The Spectator appreciate so fully the broad question, speaking from the point of view of the public and in the interest of the public. What the public really needs, and incidentally what librarians should desire, is the best books at the lowest practicable prices. To accomplish this purpose the best publishing and distributing machinery is requisite, for in the long run the price of books, as of everything else, depends upon demand and supply; and the larger the proportion of successful books and the wider the sale, the less is the waste on books that do not pay a profit or actually make a loss, and the larger the possibilities of a reduction in the general price of books. This is the plain English and the pith of it all. To accomplish this the publishers believe that they must prevent underselling, which breaks up the machinery of the retail trade and ultimately curtails instead of broadens the sale of books. Questions of discount and trade method are solely incidental.

It may be, and of course will, be said again and again that publishers are in business to make money as well as to disseminate literature. This is true; but in the larger view of commerce and trade, self-interest and altruism find a common ground. As the publishing business cannot be a trust, because there will be continuing competition within the trade, and there never has been an attempt to limit individuality of publishing price, the real purpose of an association within the booktrade is to make that fair return for the publisher and retailer alike which will make a good book market and in the long run best serve the public.

Colonel Olin usefully points out again the strict limitation of the Supreme Court decisions. The Supreme Court has not passed upon the question of contracts between publishers and booksellers, but has decided simply that price protection cannot be made part of the copyright notice and that contracts cannot be implied into transactions under the circumstances of the Scribner case. It has not decided in any sense against freedom of contract as between publisher and retailer, and in our judgment is unlikely so to decide.

REFERRING to the present depression of the English booktrade the London Nation declares that "there is scarcely a doubt that the present overproduction of inferior work is the main cause of the depression in the booktrade. There never was a time when more worthless books were placed upon the market or when works of real value ran a greater risk of being swamped by the deluge of rubbish that pours from the press." Timely words, these, which might profitably be taken to heart also by the publishing trade in this country. Standing by the stream of books that rushes by unceasingly from January to December, and noting as we are obliged to do the enormous amount of superfluous printed matter that rushes by, it is often a matter of wonder that a good book lives even as long as it does. It were indeed in the interest of all concerned in the dissemination of good literature that the publication of books that are brought out chiefly to gratify the vanity of their authors to see themselves in print should be made more impossible each year. Then only will the books of real merit have a fighting chance to live.

OUTSIDE VIEWS OF THE MACY DECISIONS.

THE LONDON SPECTATOR.

THE London Spectator in its issue of June 6, commenting on the misleading reports furnished from this country to the London Times, says:

". . . For ourselves, we do not see how under the common law of England such a judgment would be justified. If shipping companies can agree under certain conditions to fix rates, it would appear to be competent for publishers and booksellers to do the same. The agreement between the booksellers and the other signatories of a net book agreement is a personal contract with consideration attached. The limitation as to price does not attach to the book, but to its sale by a specific person. Once the book leaves his hand the agreement terminates. If a subscriber to the agreement violated its provisions, he would, in our opinion, be liable for a breach of contract; and if a publisher refused thereafter to supply him with books, it is at least extremely doubtful whether any case of boycott could be set up. We grant that the question is full of difficulties, but in the absence of any such statutes as governed the American decision, we should be inclined to think that the publishers had the stronger arguments in their favor. The matter, however, is less one of law than of public policy. This was recognized half a century ago when the booksellers and publishers fell out over this very point. The matter was referred to Lord Campbell as an informal arbitrator, and he sat in the library of Stratheden House with Grote and Milman as assessors. He found for the booksellers, but the fact that the victors in after years changed their views and entered into an alliance with the publishers shows that it is all much more a matter of policy than of legal rights. Books are a necessity for our national well-being. How can they be sold with equal advantage to the producer, retailer and consumer? There are those who urge—and with some show of reason—that books should be in the same position as most other commodities. They should be sold at any price at which the retailer thinks he can get a profitable market. It is possible that in time this state of things may come about; but we shall have first to see many changes in the methods of bookselling. If books are to be sold on the same terms as soap and candles, they must be sold in the same way. Bookshops would have to be centupled, and booksellers would have to adopt the selling methods of the ordinary grocer or haberdasher. They would become vast emporia, and the small man would disappear. All this may come about in time, but for the present there is a very great deal to be said for the net book agreement. It prevents ruinous competition among retailers. It prevents the standard of taste in format from being lowered, for the publisher is able to fix a price in accordance with his views on the matter. A book is not like a piece of soap. In soap all that we ask is that certain qualities be present, and these qualities being the essence of the article, can only be absent in a fake. But a good book may be presented with hideous binding, paper and type, and yet remain the identical book. If there were no net agreement, there would be a wild rush to cheapness and shoddiness, for the publisher would have to cater for firms who had cut down the price till their profit was infinitesimal, and a similar reduction in terms would be exacted from him. Finally there is the question of the author. Literary property does not last long, and he has to reap his gains in a short season. Since books are not articles of universal use and necessity, a price must be fixed which will give him fair remuneration. We should gladly see books cheaper; we believe that it would often be far more profitable both for author and publisher to look for small gains over a large area than large gains over a small; but obviously there must be a point where cheapness ceases to be profitable, and the point would be soon passed if every book vendor were engaged in cutting prices. Indeed, we find other trades recognizing to-day the wisdom of fixing some kind of standard. In the case of many 'proprietary articles' in the drapery trade, for example, the manufacturer sells to the retailer on condition that the article shall not be sold below a certain price. Such articles are, in our opinion, a closer parallel to books than articles of universal consumption like soap or oil. On mere grounds of public policy, we think the present arrangement better than the unregulated market which, apparently, will now be the rule in the United States.

"To sum up, we hold that it is wise to maintain wherever possible the principles of freedom and free contract; and, on the whole, the side of freedom seems to be that of letting the owners of copyright books settle the price at which their books are to be sold. If we do not allow them this liberty, we are in fact, if not in name, taking away with one hand the property which by the law of copyright we are giving with the other hand. In the end the question is a question of the proprietary rights conferred by law on the author."

STATEMENT BY S. H. OLIN AS TO THE BEARING OF THE DECISIONS.

Referring to the erroneous statements concerning the Supreme Court decisions upon which The Spectator bases its remarks, the following letter from the legal representative of the American Publishers' Association may be of interest to readers here as well as abroad:

NEW YORK, June 18, 1908.

To the Editor of The Spectator.

SIR: Your article of June 6th, entitled "Publishers, Booksellers and the Law," is evidently based upon misinformation as to a recent decision of the United States Supreme Court. I infer that the telegraphic summary sent to English papers has been unusually inaccurate.

Litigation between the firm of Macy & Company and different publishers has continued for several years, and any brief account of it can be intelligible only to those who understand our dual system of jurisprudence—State courts administering state law, including state anti-monopoly acts, and Federal courts enforcing the laws of the United States and among them the copyright acts and the Federal anti-monopoly statute.

Certain publishers formed the American Publishers' Association and agreed that each of them would sell his books only to dealers who would agree to maintain for one year the net retail price fixed by the publisher.

Macy & Company, refusing to buy books subject to these restrictions, brought suit in a New York State court to restrain the publishers from acting under their agreement, as being in restraint of trade and in violation of the New York anti-monopoly act.

The Court of Appeals, the highest court of the State, held that the acts of the publishers were not illegal so far as they related to copyrighted books, but a judgment was entered allowing Macy & Company to prove before a referee such damages as they had sustained by being deprived of uncopyrighted books.

A suit was begun in a United States Circuit Court in New York by Charles Scribner's Sons against Macy & Company, under the copyright acts, to enjoin, as an infringement of copyright, the selling at retail, at less than "net" prices, books which the Scribners had sold to wholesale dealers on condition that net prices should be maintained.

This suit was decided against the plaintiffs upon the facts, the court holding that it was not proved that the defendants were selling books affected by the conditional sale. This finding was confirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals and by the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court expressed no opinion upon the legal questions involved and the judgment did nothing toward settling the law.

The Bobbs-Merrill Company, publishers, of Indiana, brought suit in a United States Circuit Court in New York. The plaintiff had sold books to wholesale dealers without any restriction or condition whatever. Each book, however, contained a notice that it was not to be sold for less than a dollar, and the Bobbs-Merrill Company contended that, by this notice, the book, although sold by them, was kept within the copyright monopoly, and that the sale of it by any one for less than a dollar was an infringement of copyright.

The Circuit Court, the Circuit Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court rejected this claim—the Supreme Court carefully confining its decision to the exact facts in the case.

Plainly, it has not been held that "the publisher could not dictate the price at which books should be sold." It has been held that they cannot do this by a mere notice printed in the books, but the Supreme Court has not passed upon the effect of a restricted sale or of an agreement between the publisher and his vendees.

Neither the Supreme Court nor the Circuit Court of Appeals has held that the American Publishers' Association or the American Booksellers' Association was illegal or in restraint of trade. Such a defense was set up in the Scribner case, but was stricken out by the court as impertinent.

Thereafter the same defense was interposed in the Bobbs-Merrill suit, but the plaintiff did not move to strike it out, but, on the contrary, admitted the facts as alleged by Macy & Company. Neither association was party to the suit, and the trial judge, upon the facts admitted, held the defense established. The Circuit Court of Appeals, however, refused to hear the question argued, saying that the defense was obviously irrelevant.

There is no decision in any of our courts which obliges a publisher to supply his copyrighted books except on his own terms.

The Supreme Court holds that the "sole liberty of vending" a copyrighted book cannot be retained by a mere notice printed in the book, when the book is sold by an unrestricted sale, but very few publishers are either surprised or disappointed that the extreme claim advanced by the Bobbs-Merrill Company has not been sustained.

The actual decisions of the courts accord with the views expressed by you. It is a pity that the cabled news should have been so misleading. Very truly yours,

STEPHEN H. OLIN.

THE OUTLOOK.

The Outlook for June 20 in an eminently fair review of the legal struggle between the booktrade and undersellers closes its comments on the recent decisions of the Supreme Court in the cases against Macy & Co. as follows:

". . . In neither of these decisions does the Court pass upon the principle of the right of individual contract between publisher and dealer; it simply asserts that in the two cases before it the alleged contracts were really not contracts at all. It will thus be seen that these various court decisions do not mean that retail dealers have an inherent and inalienable right to sell books with all sorts of rebates and discounts, of which rights they cannot be deprived by any sort of legal steps on the part of the publishers. Nor do they mean that the publishers of the country can form a combination, even if it is a defensive one, by which a persistent price-cutter can be deprived of all the books controlled by this combination. They do mean, apparently, however, that a publisher has a right to state the terms upon which he will do business with a retailer, and may refuse to do business with the retailer if he does not accept the terms, or violates an individual contract involved in the terms. The Outlook thoroughly believes in the individual bookstore, but it also recognizes the fact that the book department of a great merchandizing firm may become an individual bookstore if it is conducted upon proper lines. This requires some knowledge of literature in general, a personal interest in books, not as mere commodities, but as works of art, and a desire to supply the community with the very best goods—principles which apply equally to the sale of watches, bicycles, gloves or groceries. Cheapness of price does not always mean economy to the purchaser, and the bookbuyers and booklovers of the country ought to welcome any legal and honest endeavor of the publishers to promote just and equal prices and facilities in every community for the display and sale of the best books, and not merely the exploitation of the 'best sellers.'"

PRICES TO JOBBERS AND RETAILERS.

"'A JOBBER is a jobber, no matter how small he is, and a retailer is a retailer, no matter how large he is.' That is the position taken by John T. Drysdale, manager of the post-card department of the Western News Company, as expressed at the American post-card manufacturers' meeting in Chicago, and in the failure to recognize the justice of this position," says The Novelty News in commenting on this statement, "lies much of the price-demoralization which is now a menace to the post-card business. Time and again legitimate jobbers in post-cards buy large editions from manufacturers, only to discover a few days later that retailers have been visited by the same salesmen who sold them large bills of exactly the same cards, at exactly the same prices. The manufacturer who sells to a jobber and then to a department store, for instance, quoting practically the same prices to the two, cannot justify himself by the excuse that the department store buys even a larger quantity than the jobber, because the retailer who buys at a jobbing trade price is sure to sell at a price so low as to destroy the market, not only for his own goods but for all competing cards in that community."

INSTITUT INTERNATIONAL DE BIBLIOGRAPHIE ET DE DOCUMENTATION.

THE International Conference of Bibliography and Records will be held at Brussels on July 10 and 11. Questions on the organization of bibliographical works and on the unification of methods and co-operation in the domain of bibliography are occupying the thoughts of all countries and are brought to the front in almost all international conventions. Many great works are already in preparation. It is planned that this conference should be preparatory and especially devoted to methods. The results are to be formulated for a great International Congress, which is to be held in 1910 simultaneously with the International Congress of Libraries and Archives now being organized for that date. The conference of July 10 and 11 is to bring together the representatives of associations, institutes, libraries and publication bureaus of all countries devoted to all the special sciences, especially representatives of organizations of international character. Preliminary reports have been prepared on all questions to be considered and will be distributed before the conference. Choice of languages for these reports has been optional.

IN HONOR OF THOMAS BAILEY ALDRICH.

MANY prominent people attended the dedication of the Thomas Bailey Aldrich Memorial at Portsmouth, N. H., on June 30. The exercises at Music Hall were presided over by the Hon. Wallace Hackett, Mayor of Portsmouth and president of the Thomas Bailey Aldrich Memorial Association. The speakers included Governor Guild of Massachusetts, Hamilton Wright Mabie, Congressman Charles E. Littlefield, Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Richard Watson Gilder, William Dean Howells, Thomas Nelson Page, Samuel S. Clemens and Robert Bridges. "The Singing Heart," an original poem dedicated to the memory of Mr. Aldrich, was read by its author, Robert Bridges, New York.

The invited guests afterwards visited the old Nutter House, which has been completely restored, following the descriptions in "The Story of a Bad Boy." Near it has been erected a fireproof building, in which are deposited Aldrich's collection of first editions, valuable manuscripts, autographs, etc., given by Mrs. Aldrich and her son.

The biography of Aldrich, by Ferris Greenslet, will be published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co. in October.

THE Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge first appeared in three volumes, November, 1882, to March, 1884. In November, 1886, a revised edition was issued and at the same time "The Encyclopedia of Living Divines and Christian Workers of All Denominations in Europe and America," a supplement to the Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia, edited by Dr. Schaff and Dr. Samuel Macauley Jackson, now the chief editor of the new encyclopedia. In 1891, the third edition of the original encyclopedia was issued, and with it was incorporated the "Encyclopedia of Living Divines" as a fourth volume, with an appendix bringing the information down to 1890.

The new encyclopedia is really the old work revised, enlarged and reconstructed. It has many points of identity with the old work, but has also the following important points of dissimilarity: (1) It contains much matter furnished directly by the contributors to the German work, who have themselves condensed their articles and brought them within the prescribed limit; (2) it contains hundreds of sketches of living persons derived in almost every instance from matter furnished by themselves; (3) the matter in proof has been sent to persons specially chosen for eminence in their respective departments; (4) a much more thorough bibliography is furnished; (5) all articles based on German originals have been sent in proof to the writers of the original German articles when still living and the condensation and translations have been approved by them.

The associate editors and department editors have sought to do their work with conscientious fidelity, and the Funk & Wagnalls Co. have again provided a great work of reference for which the English-speaking world should give them hearty support. It is no mean distinction to have one's imprint on "The Standard Dictionary," "The Jewish Encyclopedia," and the "New Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge."

NEW YORK NEWSDEALERS CANNOT TRANSFER PERMITS.

THE New York Board of Aldermen adopted on June 30 without dissent the ordinance forbidding holders of news, fruit and bootblack stands within the stoop lines and under the elevated stations to sell the permits which allow them to do business at those stands.

The ordinance was introduced by Alderman Dowling, who repeated at the hearing on June 30 that there are certain individuals in New York City who have made a practice of getting stand permits free and selling them. The ordinance provides a penalty of $50 for every offence, and that a man who has once transferred a license shall be barred from holding another. The stand holders opposed the ordinance on the ground that it would prevent them from selling their good will on retiring from business.

ANOTHER SWINDLER BUSY.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: The paragraph headed "A Swindler Abroad," in your issue of June 20, attracted our attention because our library was visited by a very clever swindler on May 29 who "borrowed" fifteen dollars. He called himself Mr. Perry, and said that he had just been given charge of the Department of Manuscripts in the Boston Public Library.

OBITUARY NOTES.

SIR EDWARD BALDWIN MALET, a frequent contributor to the periodical and daily press on subjects of political and general interest, and the author of "Shifting Scenes," a volume of personal recollections, died in London June 30. He was born at the Hague in October, 1837.

"ALLEN RAINE," (Mrs. Beynon Puddicombe,) a novelist of whose books nearly 2,000,000 copies are said to have been sold in Great Britain, within ten years, died on June 22 in London. Mrs. Puddicombe was born in Newcastle Emlyn, Wales, and was the daughter of Benjamin Evans, a solicitor. Her novels began to appear under the pen-name of "Allen Raine" in 1897. She wrote "A Welsh Singer," "Torn Sails," "By Berwen Banks," "Garthowen," "A Welsh Witch," "On the Wings of the Wind," "Hearts of Wales," and "Queen of the Rushes," most of which were brought out here by D. Appleton & Co.

GEORGE HENRY DANIELS, for many years passenger agent of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, well known to travelling men all over the country, died at Lake Placid, N. Y., July 1. "Uncle George" Daniels was born in Hampshire, Ill., December 1, 1842. At the age of fifteen he began his railroad career, to which he devoted the better part of his life. Mr. Daniels originated the names "The Four-Track System" and "The Empire State Express," and he established and edited The Four-Track News, which was later merged into Travel. He was instrumental in inducing the government to depict the Empire State Express on one of the Pan-American stamps.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MRS. HUMPHRY WARD has finished her Canadian visit and is about to sail from Quebec for England.

READERS of "The Cruise of the Cachalot" no doubt will be interested to see the writer's new book, "The Confessions of a Tradesman." It appears that when its author, Frank T. Bullen, was a government clerk, earning about $10 a week, his wife received a legacy of $1000, and they purchased a little shop in Peckham, "a picture frame and general fancy emporium." Mr. Bullen retained his clerkship, but the struggle to support the family was, nevertheless, a desperate one. It is described in these "Confessions." Not until he discovered his literary aptitude and wrote "The Cruise of the Cachalot" were his miseries ended.

LORD CURZON on July 1 unveiled the medallion of "John Oliver Hobbes." (Mrs. Craigie,) which has been placed in the library of University College, London, where Mrs. Craigie was a student. The medallion, which was executed by Alfred Drury, is of bronze, framed in dark wood. On the top corners are figures representing literature and comedy. A replica of the medallion will be sent to this country.

THERE has been much speculation as to the authorship of that clever detective story,

"The Four-Pools Mystery," published anonymously last March, and opinion has seemed to concur that internal evidence proved it the work of a Southerner, though Anna Katharine Green has been credited with it more than once. Now it is told, on the authority of the publishers, that the author of what the Philadelphia Public Ledger declares the "most thrilling detective tale" published in recent years, is Miss Jean Webster, who set thousands to laughing over her first book, "When Patty Went to College."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE report that the London Times has been sold to Lord Northcliffe, (formerly Sir Alfred Harmsworth,) the principal proprietor of the London Daily Mail, is denied. The Times is authority for the further statement that the directors of the company formed in March will take over the control of the paper July 4.

The Forum, which was started in 1886 as a monthly magazine, but which during the last six years has been issued as a quarterly, has reverted to its former custom of monthly publication, beginning with the July number. This is to give the editors more space for the publication of special articles on topics of timeliness and importance in the world of thought. It seems also the intention of the editors to give the magazine a lighter touch, as the forthcoming number will contain the first instalment of a serial story by Joseph Conrad, which will be followed on its completion by other serials and short stories.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ASHEVILLE, N. C.—The Brown Book Company, which has lately taken over the Inland Book Store, is now fully organized, and has elected the following officers: Edwin L. Brown, Jr., president; Owen Gudger, secretary; James G. Stikeleather, treasurer. The directors of the company are Edwin L. Brown, Jr., Hugh Brown, Owen Gudger, James G. Stikeleather and T. J. Harkins. Edwin L. Brown, Jr., who will be in charge of the business, is well known through his connection with the Hackney & Moale bookstore, of which he was the manager for a number of years.

BALTIMORE, MD.—The Doxey Book Shop Company is reported to be in the hands of a receiver.

BERRYVILLE, VA.—The Ricamore Bookstore has taken a larger store next to the postoffice.

DES MOINES, IA.—H. Jesse Miller has removed his bookstore to the corner—two doors east of his present location.

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, MO.—E. T. Ashby has succeeded to the book business of F. M. Applegate.

NEW YORK CITY.—At the first meeting of the creditors of Robert Grier Cooke, Inc., on June 25, Francis H. Griffin, of 82 Beaver Street, was appointed trustee.

PERSONAL NOTES.

H. J. BERGER, who for two years past has been editor of Geyer's Stationer, and who for five years previously was editor of The American Stationer, has assumed the editorship of The National Stationer. Mr. Berger will endeavor to make The National Stationer deserve the fine support it has been promised.

L. KNIGHT, formerly manager of the American branch of Ward, Lock & Co., who has been for some time in Australia and England, has returned to New York City. His address for the present will be in care of Rohde & Haskins, 16 Cortlandt Street, New York City. Mr. Knight will shortly announce his future plans.

CHARLES F. PAGE, for years associated with his brothers in the publishing firm of L. C. Page & Company, has resigned his position as advertising manager to go on the business staff of the Boston Herald. Besides general publicity work for the Herald, Mr. Page will have charge of the book pages, and will represent the magazine and book publishers for the Herald.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

DODD, MEAD & CO., New York, have brought out an interesting list of books which is intended to answer the question "What Shall I Read this Summer?" The list includes fiction, travel books, nature books, essays, biography and a number of miscellaneous books. Many of the titles are annotated. (56 p. 32°.)

THE OFFICE OF THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY has just brought out the second main volume of the "American Catalog" series of the twentieth century, forming the seventh since the original volume of books in print in 1876. The volume as finally planned covers only the three years 1905, 1906 and 1907 instead of a five-year or ten-year period as originally outlined. The present limit was adopted because the current bibliographical matter has grown to such proportions that a longer period would necessitate either an unmanageably bulky volume or the division of the catalogue into two volumes, to which there are many valid objections. Then, too, there would be the inevitable delay in putting into the hands of the bookseller and librarian this much-needed information in available shape. As it is, the present volume and its predecessor cover the period from January 1, 1900, to January 1, 1908, and thus provide a fairly complete index, in two alphabets, for the past eight years—a period during which practically all books now in active demand have either been first published or have been reissued. Prefixed to the volume is a Directory of Publishers issuing books from January 1, 1905, to December 31, 1907. (65+1164 p. 8°, half morocco, $7.50.) The supplementary volume, containing the full title record material appearing in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY during 1905-1907, a separate alphabet for each year, is also just ready, bound uniform with the above volume in half morocco at $6.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

RICHARD BADGER, Boston, has published an interesting little book of charades entitled "Guesswork," by Emily Shaw Forman.

THE HENRY ALTEMUS COMPANY has just brought out a series of readable talks on "Work and Habits," by Senator Beveridge.

THOMAS WHITAKER has brought out "The New Anecdote Book," by Alfred H. Miles, a volume similar to the author's "One Thousand and One Anecdotes," for the use of platform speakers of all classes.

THE AMERICAN GYMNASIA COMPANY, Boston, Mass., is about to publish a volume entitled "American Playgrounds, their Construction, Equipment, Maintenance and Utility," edited by E. B. Mero, with 100 illustrations from photographs, drawings and plans.

THE DODGE PUBLISHING CO. will publish on July 20 a volume by Walter Cottingham, entitled "Business Success," which embraces a life's experience in business and treats of most all the principles covered by Emerson in his essays. They also announce a second edition of "The Widow," (to say nothing of the man,) by Helen Rowland, which first appeared on June 10.

CASSELL & CO. announce a new novel by Mrs. Campbell Craig, entitled "By Their Fruits," which will appear early next month. During September they will publish the fifth volume of their "Cyclopædia of Mechanics," which will bring the work up to date. "Moore's Almanac" for 1909, which will be the 212th annual issue, will also appear in September. Lett's diaries are now handled in this country exclusively by Cassell.

IN "The Shakespeare Problem Restated," the author, G. G. Greenwood, has had for his object the presentation of the arguments for the negative case—the proposition that the Stratford player was not the real Shakespeare. He is convinced that the time has come for such a restatement to be made in the light of modern criticism and research. No attempt is made to uphold the Baconian or any other theory of authorship, or to arrive at any positive solution of the problem. The book has just been brought out by John Lane Company.

CUPPLES & LEON will bring out on the 15th inst. "The Evening Telegram Cook Book," a collection of the recipes from the New York Evening Telegram; the following additions to their new copyright fiction by world-famous authors: "The Gates of Life," by Bram Stoker, and "The Soul of Crœsus," by G. Villiers-Stuart; also, a new book by Buffalo Bill, (Colonel W. F. Cody,) entitled "True Tales of the Plains," containing descriptions of Custer's last fight, the Pony Express, and vivid descriptions of the author's numerous encounters with the Indians.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have brought out twelve sets of four cards each of picture post-cards, in colors, by Clarence Underwood, Ethel F. and Anna W. Betts, Anita Le Roy and others. This is the first time that the work of these celebrated and popular artists has ever appeared in post-card form. The designs have been carefully and artistically reproduced and will undoubtedly become favorites at once. They call our attention to the fact that it is not their intention, as our item in last week's issue made them say, to publish all of their juvenile books before August, but only their Comic Juveniles—which is a totally different matter. Also, the title of Beatrice Harraden's new novel is "Interplay," not "Outerplay."

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY have just brought out a work in three parts by James L. Rand, entitled "Systematic Supplementary Bible Studies." The first part, intended for the Primary Department, is an arrangement of questions and answers pertaining to important religious facts, such as the being of God, the religion and contents of the Bible, etc. It also suggests the memorizing of certain portions, such as the Twenty-third Psalm and the Ten Commandments. Part second, prepared for the Junior Department, deals more with questions of personal religion and the revelation of God in Christ. It also takes up the history, very briefly, and the geography of the Bible lands. The third part gives, for the Intermediate and Senior Departments, in outline form, the principal facts in the life of Jesus, the plan of redemption, and an epitome of church and Bible history.

REILLY & BRITTON will have on exhibition at the Palmer House, Chicago, from July 6 to 18, a complete sample line of their publications. After July 15 their full line will be shown at their New York headquarters with Hurst & Co., at 395 Broadway. Among their new books that promise to find favor with buyers this fall are: "Dorothy and the Wizard in Oz," by L. Frank Baum—the 1908 "Oz" book—with many full-colored and black-and-white illustrations by John R. Neill; Children's Stories That Never Grow Old Series, twenty-four standard juvenile titles, printed from new large type plates and illustrated in full color by John R. Neill; a second edition of "The Bride's Cook Book," recipes proportioned for two, with instructions for enlarging, with full information on all subjects pertaining to the dining-room and kitchen, expressly arranged to serve the needs of the girl bride; "Forget-Me-Nots," an every-day book for everybody in which to make all kinds of memoranda, illustrated on every page in two colors; "When Good Fellows Get Together," a selection of sentiments expressive of good-fellowship, optimism, uplift and cheerfulness, printed in two colors on fine paper; "Toasts You Ought to Know," a comprehensive selection of toasts, conveniently arranged on unique lines, by Janet Madison; "Twentieth Century Toasts," an attractive collection of old and new toasts, bound in enamelled paper, with decorations on every page; and "Memorable American Speeches," edited by John Vance Cheney, a selection of the epoch-making speeches of American orators.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 5 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

☞Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

THE CLIQUE

(ESTABLISHED 1890)

The Recognized Organ of the Second-Hand Book Trade

THE CLIQUE is read by every bookseller who deals in old books in Great Britain, and by many in the United States and on the Continent.

THE CLIQUE advertises for about 4000 books every week; books which are wanted by its Members, and for which they are willing to pay a fair price.

THE CLIQUE is issued to booksellers only, its motto being "The Trade for THE TRADE." Booksellers can therefore report to our advertisers in confidence that they will not be "cut" by amateur dealers, who are not obliged to make their living by selling books.

THE CLIQUE is the best medium for all advertisements which appeal to booksellers, and its rates are lower than those of any tradepaper in the world.

SUBSCRIPTION 6s 6d ($1 50) per annum, post free; but as all subscriptions terminate in December subscribers may deduct 1½d (three half-pence) for each week of the year that has passed.

A New Novel Ready This Day

By the Author of "The Common Lot"

Mr. Robert Herrick's new novel Together

"Journeys end—in lovers meeting"—and novels end—in marriage, so they say. Yet perhaps Mr. Herrick's novel gets a part of its deep interest from the very boldness of the plot and plan which violates the old rule. For his novel begins where most end—at the wedding; it is a novel about married people that will interest married people. Incidentally, it is quite the keenest, clearest picture of certain phases of modern society yet written.

Mr. Churchill's new novel Mr. Crewe's Career is easily the best selling new novel in the United States, and is reported as one of "the leaders" in England, where they are captivated by Victoria. "She has that quality of vivid freshness, tenderness, and independence which makes so many modern American heroines delightful," says the London Times.

"Another chapter in his broad, epical delineation of the American spirit. . . . It is an honest and fair story . . . it is very interesting; and the heroine is a type of woman as fresh, original, and captivating as any that has appeared in American novels for a long time past."—The Outlook. Illustrated.

Frank Danby's new novel The Heart of a Child

"Conspicuously above the general level of contemporary fiction . . . we feel that we are being allowed to probe a woman's inmost soul, and are stirred to mingled laughter and tears at the truth and the pathos of the picture."—Bookman.

"Mrs. Frankau's best novel . . . has a picturesque quality that keeps the reader alert . . . She compels us to see the things she describes as she herself sees them and she furthermore convinces us of their truth."—Boston Transcript.

Barbara's new book The Open Window

Tales of the Months told by "Barbara," Author of "The Garden of a Commuter's Wife," "People of the Whirlpool," etc. Just ready.

"Barbara reminds one of Elizabeth of 'German Garden' fame in more ways than one, but being American she is broader, more versatile and humorous."
—Evening Post, Chicago.

Mr. F. Marion Crawford's The Primadonna

"Mr. Crawford is at his best in this romance. He tells an absorbing story, and he places at the center of it a woman whose character is full of interest. . . . It is a dramatic beginning, and Mr. Crawford goes on as he begins . . . the whole tangled business becomes more and more exciting, and we follow the Primadonna through the proceedings with breathless interest."—New York Tribune. With frontispiece.

Jack London's latest novel The Iron Heel

"London is one of the half dozen Americans with the real story-telling gift."
—Baltimore Sun.

NOTES IN SEASON.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO. have just brought out the new special edition of Miss Alcott's most famous story, "Little Women," containing all the pictures by Frank T. Merrill that appeared in the original $5 illustrated edition. The publishers have fixed no retail price on the book.

THE R. E. LEE COMPANY have now ready an unusual novel dealing with church and state in South America, entitled "The Power Supreme," by Francis C. Nicholas. The novel, the publishers feel hopeful, will attract wide interest and create some discussion. William Kirkpatrick has furnished a frontispiece which is reproduced in colors. Small, Maynard & Co. will supply the trade.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just brought out "Practical Hints on Modelling, Design, and Mural Decoration," by Henry F. W. Ganz; "The Educational Process," by Arthur Cary Fleshman, the sixth volume in Lippincott's Educational Series; "The Cotton-Weaver's Hand-Book," by Henry V. Heylin; also, "Definitions in Navigation and Nautical Astronomy," by P. Groves-Showell.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY publish this week "The Call of the Waters," by Katharine R. Crowell, which forms part of the Interdenominational Home Mission Study Course. This volume takes up the study of the frontier, moving westward, showing in each successive stage how Christianity was imbedded in the foundations of America; also, "Esperanto in Fifty Lessons," by Edmond Privat, author of "Esperanto at a Glance."

L. C. PAGE & CO. will bring out next week in their Cathedral Series a volume on "The Cathedrals and Churches of Northern Italy," by T. Francis Bumpus. The text of this volume is authoritative and scholarly, combining a description of the technical beauties of the cathedrals and the legends surrounding them in an entertaining manner. The illustrations are reproductions in duogravures from photographs. The cover design and many minor decorations are by Blanche McManus.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY will publish shortly a delightful volume for the unconventional traveller, by Frank Rutter, entitled "Path to Paris," by means of which the reader, with much keen pleasure and little or no effort, arrives at numerous points of interest between Havre and Paris. It is a rambling record, a sentimental journey along river banks, under bridges, through market places and open fields, past grey cathedral walls and towers, quays and castles, huts and ruins, all of which have been successfully pictured by Hanslip Fletcher.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish on the 15th inst. "A First Course in Biology," by L. H. Bailey and Walter Coleman, prepared to meet the need for unit courses in biology in secondary schools in place of the former isolated courses in botany, zoology and physiology. The book is divided into three parts: (1) plant biology, (2) annual biology, (3) human biology. They will at the same time publish "A Course of Study for the Kindergarten Grades of the Bible School," by Lois Sedgwick Palmer, who through long experience as supervisor of kindergarten teaching in a large Buffalo Sunday-school obtained the material for this course of study; "A French Grammar," by Professor Hugo Thieme and John Effinger, both of the University of Michigan; also, the third volume of the Eversley edition of Tennyson. "Early Emerson Poems" in the Pocket Classic series will be published on July 22.

Cleveland, Stephen Grover. Good citizenship. Phil., Henry Altemus Co., [1908.] c. 5-78 p. S. cl., 50 c.

Mr. Cleveland's recent death makes his words of weight. He impresses the responsibility that rests on every voter. He saw real danger in our boundless, unquestioning faith in our national destiny. The American citizen avoids the uncomfortable thought that any omission on his part can check American progress or endanger our country's continued development. Mr. Cleveland seeks to inspire an unswerving devotion to the highest ideals of civic rightcousness Copleston, Bp. Reginald Stephen. Buddhism: primitive and present; in Magadha and in Ceylon. 2d ed. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1908. 16+301 p. O. cl., *$3 net.

Author is Bishop of Calcutta. The first edition was published in 1892. The scope of the work is limited to the history and description of that particular stock or branch of Buddhism which has been established and continued in Ceylon. The book as now presented has been entirely re-written. Notice has been taken of such recent discoveries as have become known to the author, but the alterations are chiefly for clearness and better arrangement.

Crane, Walter R. Gold and silver; comprising an economic history of mining in the United States, the geographical and geological occurrence of the precious metals, with their mineralogical associations, history and description of methods of mining and extraction of values, and a detailed discussion of the production of gold and silver in the world and the United States. Dahlgren, Ulric, and Kepner, W: A. A textbook of the principles of animal histology. N. Y., Macmillan, 1908. 13+515 p. il. 8°, cl., *$3.75 net.

Written to provide a work that covers the general field of histology, and is not restricted in the main to human and mammalian forms, as is the case with most other existing text-books in its class. The authors say that it is intended to be a work of general principles and to teach histology as a pure science and for its own sake. It exceeds the limits of an ordinary college text-book and becomes a foundation for the study of morphology and embryology, particularly with reference to a subsequent medical course. The book contains 470 illustrations, all newly and uniformly drawn, and mainly from the authors' own investigations.

Dawson, W: Ja., D.D. The quest of the simple life. N. Y., Dutton, 1907, [1908.] 7+278 p. 12°, cl., $1.50.

Contents: The house of bondage; Getting the best out of life; Getting a living, and living; Earth-hunger; Health and economics; In search of the picturesque; I find my cottage; Buying happiness; How we lived; Neighbourship; The wounds of a friend; Am I right?; The city of the future.

Foster, W: Trufant. Argumentation and debating. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., [1908.] c. 18+486 p. D. cl., $1.25 net.

Author is professor of English and debating in Bowdoin College. Presents the essentials of the subject, simply following the order in which the difficulties arise in actual practice. The point of view is that of the student; the amount of practical material is larger than usual in manuals of this kind. Author claims there can be no better training for citizenship than a capacity for getting at both sides of a subject and learning to respect opinions that differ if they are founded on logical reasons.

Fowler, Jessie Allen. Brain roofs and porticos: a psychological study of mind and character; 100 illustrations. N. Y., Fowler & Wells Co., [1908.] c. 148 p. 8°, cl., *$1 net.

Galsworthy, J: Villa Rubein. N. Y., Putnam, 1908. c. 8+299 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

In the Austrian Tyrol Alois Harz, an artist of peasant birth, falls in love with Christian Devorell, an English girl. The opposition of her self-indulgent step-father, money-loving uncle, and affected aunt is increased by the discovery that Harz belonged in his youth to a society of Anarchists, escaped from the hands of the police, and is still liable to arrest while he remains in the country. Christian's step-father finally notifies the authorities of his whereabouts, but Harz escapes, with the unexpected help of the uncle. Eventually the hero and heroine marry and live comfortably in England.

Gilbert, Grove Karl, and Brigham, Albert Perry. An introduction to physical geography. N. Y., Appleton, 1908. c. '02, '04, '06. 16+412 p. il. maps, D. (Twentieth century text-books; ed. by A. F. Nightingale.) cl., $1.25 net.

Mr. Gilbert is a geologist in the United States Geological Survey, and author of "Geology of Henry Mountains," and "Lake Bonneville," etc.; Mr. Brigham is professor of geology in Colgate University, and author of "Text-book of geology." The authors have striven to adapt the book to the earlier stages of the high-school course. To this end the statements are simple, technical terms are sparingly used, and when employed they are promptly defined.

Handbook of learned societies and institutions: America. Wash., D. C., Carnegie Institution of Washington, 1908. 8+3-592 p. O. (Carnegie Institution of Washington publication.) pap., gratis.

Important societies and institutions of North and South America are listed, with locations and addresses, followed in most cases by a brief statement of the history and object of the society concerned, and including data with regard to meetings, membership, publications, research funds, and prizes. The material has been compiled by Mrs. Lucy C. Daniels Thompson, assisted by Miss Mary F. Griffin, under the direction of J. David Thompson, of the Library of Congress, to which has been entrusted the supervision and expenditure of these handbooks, which are to cover the learned societies of the world.

International documents: a collection of international conventions and declarations of a law-making kind; ed., with introd. and notes, by E. A. Whittuck. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1908. 38+228+229-252 p. O. cl., *$3.50 net.

The author is one of the governors of the London School of Economics and Political Science. This handbook is intended to make the treaties it sets out in French and English more easily accessible, they being those which for the study of international law have most frequently to be consulted and compared. Pts. 1 and 2 of the texts thus brought together have been for some time in type, waiting for the results of the Hague Conference of 1907. Pt. 3, containing the Acts of this Conference, has been added as soon as possible, but as these Conventions have not yet been ratified this Part must be regarded for the present as supplementary.

Issued also, with an additional chapter and glossary, under title: "Graded lessons in physiology and hygiene." The keynote of this book is health. There has been no attempt to prepare an extended treatise on anatomy and psychology. It has been the purpose of the author to present in simple language to the children in the intermedite grades a knowledge of the conditions which tend to preserve and strengthen the body.

Under this figurative title the author presents facts about the care and building of the body in a way that will interest and impress children, and help them in forming daily habits likely to ensure future health and usefulness. The author believes that the reading and discussion of these facts in the sixth or seventh year in school will have most beneficial results. Technical terms and complicated physiological processes are avoided, and all the information is made to bear some practical application, or explain the reason for ordinary hygienic customs.

A young Boston lad, who grows up in a second-hand bookstore, from which his father manages to obtain a mere living, is the relator of the story. The incidents are unsensational and simply told, not without some humor. The characters are reminiscent of Dickens, especially the boy's father and mother. How they all rise from poverty to an unexpected fortune is the plot. A will hidden in an old book lies dormant in the old store for years. It is the last of many, by which a great-uncle bequeathes to the boy half of his fortune.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 11, 1908.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

ON THE NECESSITY OF ORGANIZATION.

THE outcry against "trusts," originating in a wholesome desire to prevent combinations in restraint of trade and to punish concerns like the Standard Oil Company, which had been outrageous in its methods, has gone to an almost grotesque extreme in some quarters. Possibly President Roosevelt's utterances have been too much of a "bracer" in this direction, though he was combating an evil of undoubted reality and gigantic proportions. It is often an unfortunate outcome of such crusades that in extreme hands they become a reductio ad absurdum, as seems to be the case in Texas. There the attorney general is proposing a number of suits which, although they may prove to have no legal basis, are nevertheless disconcerting.

There is in Texas a very extreme law which the attorney general of that State is seeking to enforce against the American Book Company and against several educational publishers who are incidentally members of the American Publishers' Association. Such laws can only be enforced when they are within the limits of reasonableness and the suits have definite relation to actual facts. Should such a case arise it ought to be tried out in a test case as can be done only through concerted action. For the most part, such suits, especially when they demand extravagant damages, are apt to be in the nature of "bluffs," and should be stoutly resisted.

The American Book Company, whatever its original intention may have been, has never succeeded in being a trust. At its beginnings it took over the educational publications of a number of houses through purchase, and it was perhaps expected that so formidable a competitor would diminish the sales of smaller rivals and ultimately absorb the school book business. But this did not happen. Competition has been not less keen than before and the number of educational publishing houses is rather more than before, despite the large proportion of the school book business which is in the hands of the American Book Company. If we understand rightly, this is not in any legal or economic sense a trust, because it is not a combination of houses, but a commercial house which has purchased the specialty of educational books from other houses, most of which are still publishing other books and which we presume have now no organic or constructual relation with the American Book Company.

It is still more untrue that the American Publishers' Association is in any sense a trust. First of all, it has never attempted jurisdiction over school books, its plan specifically excepting them, nor has it attempted control over the prices made by individual publishers. It has had nothing whatever to do with the pricing of books, or the limiting of their supply; therefore, an attempt to define it as a trust breaks down at the beginning. What it has done has been to equalize discounts, first by regulation and later by recommendation, among its members and by the trade. It has made some mistakes in doing this, but it has, on the whole, done a great service to the trade, and ultimately to the public. It has never sought to prevent low prices, but only to prevent the breaking down of trade through underselling. A frank exposition of its present status is likely to show any court that it is not open to legal objection or judicial criticism.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that the houses constituting the American Publishers' Association, instead of being frightened by the Texas bugaboo or discouraged by the Macy decisions, may take heart to continue their good work and meet new conditions as they arrive. There are two great principles at issue in the present controversy. On the one side, the public are entitled through the law and the courts to be protected against unlawful combinations which do restrain trade against the public interest; on the other hand, every person—corporate firm or individual—doing business, whether in books or otherwise, is entitled to the application of the principle of freedom of contract in their individual transactions. The owner of property of any kind cannot be compelled to sell his property, except, under the principle of eminent domain, unless it pleases him to sell it. This is at the foundation of our business system and cannot be too stoutly upheld. The need of organization in defence of this principle is evident. We trust that the American Publishers' Association will be prepared to defend its members against attacks of this sort and from such quarters, rather than to leave each house to fight out the question, at greater expense and trouble, each for itself. Any other outcome would be a misfortune to the trade and ultimately to the principles of public justice, on which the interests of the public also depend.

THE APPELLATE DIVISION DECIDES AGAINST MACY & CO.

THE Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, in New York City, on July 8, affirmed the decision of Judge Dowling, of the Supreme Court, rendered August 8, 1907, in the case of Macy vs. the American Publishers' Association, namely, that Macy & Co. are entitled to damages only in the case of non-copyright books. Judge Dowling's decision, now affirmed—Judges Scott, Houghton and Clark assenting and Judges Ingraham and McLaughlin dissenting—was as follows:

"A careful examination of the testimony and exhibits herein leads me to the conclusion that it is impossible to differentiate the legal propositions now presented for determination from those which were judicially settled by the Court of Appeals by its prior decisions herein, and which were raised by demurrer (177 N. Y., 473). The question is not one of the interpretation of the copyright laws of the United States, and therefore the contention of plaintiff's counsel that the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit should supersede that of the Court of Appeals is incorrect, even if there were no conflict of decisions (as there is) between the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in different circuits. The issue herein is as to the construction and application of a New York State statute (chap. 690, Laws of 1899), and the Court of Appeals of this State having defined and determined the extent to which the acts complained of are in contravention of the statute, its decision is final and conclusive. It follows, therefore, that in consonance with the decision of Chief Justice Parker, writing for the majority of the court, plaintiffs are entitled to judgments, with costs, against defendants, restraining them from interfering in any way with the sale of uncopyrighted books to plaintiffs, and for the damages which plaintiffs have sustained by reason of defendant's unlawful acts in the premises."

Macy will now appeal to the Court of Appeals.

FIRST EDITIONS OF DICKENS IN AMERICA.

"IT is well known," as The Nation points out, "that American editions of several of Thackeray's books were published prior to the recognized first English editions. Some were collections of magazine contributions issued with the authority of their author, but many were pirated or unauthorized.

To a less extent the same thing is true of Dickens. Two pamphlets of this character not included in any of the published bibliographies of Dickens have recently turned up. The first has the title:

"'Public Life of Mr. Tulrumble, Once Mayor of Mudfog, and Oliver Twist; or, The Paris Boy's Progress. By 'Boz.' Sold by all the Principal Booksellers. New-York 1837.'

"This contains 52 pages, measuring 6⅛ by 3¾ inches, in pink paper covers. Of the two sketches mentioned on the title, the first, 'Public Life of Mr. Tulrumble,' appeared in the first number of Bentley's Miscellany, January, 1837. The second, the first two chapters of Oliver Twist, appeared in Bentley's for February. No doubt they were reprinted as soon as the February number of the magazine reached America. Chapters III. and IV. appeared in the March number; but this pamphlet contains no mention of any continuation.

When Oliver Twist was published in three volumes, 8vo, the next year, some alterations were made. The first sentence in the magazine and in this pamphlet begins: 'Among other public buildings in the town of Mudfog,' etc. In the first and later editions this is altered to 'In a certain town which for many reasons it will be prudent to refrain from mentioning,' etc.

"The second of these pamphlets is entitled:

"'Travelling Letters. Written on the Road. By Charles Dickens. New York: Wiley & Putnam, 161 Broadway. 1846.'

"This is a 12mo, consisting of title and 22 pages of text, bound in brown paper. The pamphlet is very thin, but the wrapper is lettered lengthwise 'Dickens' Travelling Letters.—Part I.,' showing that when the cover was printed the intention was to make the volume much thicker.

Dickens visited Italy in 1844 and 1845. On his return he contributed a series of articles to the Daily News, No. 1 of which was issued under his editorship, January 21, 1846. These sketches continued irregularly through January, February and March. Later in the year they were collected in book form as 'Pictures from Italy.' The three 'Letters' included in this pamphlet appeared in the Daily News for January 21, 24 and 31. Together they fill pp. 1-37 of the first English edition.

The date at the beginning of the narrative which is 'eighteen hundred and forty-four' in the first edition, as it was in fact, is 'eighteen hundred and forty-five, in this pamphlet.

On the publication of the English edition Wiley and Putnam brought out an American edition, 'Price 38 cents.' It is not likely that more than this Part I. of these letters was ever published in this form."

PHOTOGRAPHY WITHOUT CAMERAS.

Professor Gabriel Lippmann, the discoverer of color photography, has just made another discovery that, if found practicable, will revolutionize the art of photography. According to the Paris correspondent of the New York Times, when his discovery has been perfected in a few of its details, cameras in general may be done away with, and the photograph will give the same effect of relief and perspective which can be secured now only by use of the stereoscope. The film, or sensitive plate, is put in an ordinary plate holder, and placed in front of the object or landscape which it is desired to photograph. The slide is opened and shut and the operation is finished. It will be impossible, however, according to Professor Lippmann to reproduce this new photography in printing. It is no good for photogravure. For pictures reproduced in the newspapers the stereoscope must still be used.

In describing his new discovery Professor Lippmann explained that "the constitution of a photographic apparatus is analogous in many respects to that of the human eye. As a result, if we wish to obtain perspective and relief we are forced to use the stereoscope. I was long convinced that if I could produce the image as it appears on the eye of a fly, I should have my stereoscopic effect direct. The eye of this class of insect is composed of a large number of minute facets. Each of these facets reproduces a corner of the object or landscape presented to it. The ensemble of the facets gives the complete picture. I therefore set to work to find some preparation which would give a similar result.

"After a good deal of research, I evolved a collodion film, upon which I placed a thin layer of sensitive gelatine finely honeycombed. This honeycombing process created a multitude of globules—to be exact, twenty-five to each square millimeter. In the layer of collodion each of these globules forms two hemispheres. That which is in front, toward the exterior, is of much smaller radius than that which is behind, and which offers a larger curve. The first hemisphere plays the rôle of the objective; the second retains the image. Each globule reproduces the totality of the picture, but permits the eye to distinguish only that point coming within the radius of vision. In virtue of its power of accommodating itself to circumstances, the eye groups all the visible points together, and the sum total makes the complete picture. Thus, the eye, while seeing a single image, sees it under all its aspects. Move the photograph to left or to right, and the relief and perspective change, because the eye encounters a different set of points."

PICK-UPS.

Author and Manager.—"Yes, your play pleases me. I will produce it; but I don't intend to run any risks of a misunderstanding. Please sign this paper authorizing me to rewrite the dialogue, introduce another set of characters, and change the name!"—Le Rire.

OBITUARY NOTES.

The Rev. Alexander Viets Griswold Allen, for more than forty years professor of ecclesiastical history at the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, died on July 2 at his home in Cambridge. Professor Allen was born at Otis, Mass., May 4, 1841, and was educated at Kenyon College. He was ordained deacon in 1865, and the following year was ordained priest. From 1865 to 1867 he was rector of St. John's Church at Lawrence, Mass., and then was appointed to a professorship at the Cambridge Theological School, which he occupied till his death. Professor Allen was the author of "Continuity of Christian Thought," "Life of Jonathan Edwards," "Religious Progress," "Christian Institutions," "Life and Letters of Phillips Brooks," and "Freedom in the Church," the latter causing a great deal of comment in church circles, following so closely as it did upon the Crapsey incident.

Jonas Lauritz Edemil Lie, one of the leading authors of Norway, died at Christiania, Norway, on July 5. Lie was born November 6, 1833. He was an associate of Björnson and Ibsen at Christiania, where he studied law before he began his career in literature, journalism and teaching. He belonged to the French naturalistic school of writers and had special knowledge of sea and coast life and depicted it with sympathy and humor. His most widely-known novel is "The Pilot and His Wife," published in 1874. He received a travelling stipend from the government and later a poet's pension. He spent twelve years in German cities and in Paris, and when he returned to Norway in 1893 the occurrence was celebrated by a national festival. Among his works that have been translated into English are the great novel already mentioned, "The Visionary," "One of Life's Slaves," "Weird Tales from Northern Seas," and "Niobe."

Murat Halstead, a leader in American journalism for upwards of fifty years, died in Cincinnati on July 2. Mr. Halstead was born on a farm in Butler County, O., about twenty miles from Cincinnati, September 2, 1829. While still a student in Farmer's College, from which he was graduated in 1851, he contributed to The Cincinnati Atlas, with which he became associated after leaving college. He was connected at different times with the Cincinnati Commercial, The New York Extra, and the Brooklyn Standard Union. For forty years he reported the national political conventions. He saw several wars as a correspondent, and his criticisms of the conduct of the armies in the Franco-Prussian war were so vigorous and forcible that they gained him the title of "Field Marshal." In recent years Mr. Halstead wrote a number of books. Among them are "Our Country in War," "The Story of Cuba," "The Story of the Philippines," "Official History of the War with Spain," "Life of President McKinley," "Life of Admiral Dewey," "The Boer and British War," and "The War Between Russia and Japan."

JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, ("Uncle Remus,") died at Atlanta, Ga., on July 3. Mr. Harris was born at Eatonton, Ga., December 9, 1848. He began to earn his living as a printer at twelve years of age, working in the office of The Countryman, a weekly paper published on the plantation of Joseph A. Turner, nine miles from Eatonton. Here the young boy had opportunity to make a wide acquaintance with the best literature in the library of Mr. Turner. Here he also gathered from the negroes on the plantation the folk-lore and superstitions of which he later made such telling use. Mr. Turner fled at the approach of Sherman's army in 1864, and after the close of the war Georgia was in such distress that young Harris went to New Orleans and found work on The Crescent Monthly. Later he moved to Savannah and worked on The News. There he married Miss La Rose, a Canadian girl, in 1873, studied law and for a short time practised law in Forsyth, Ga. In 1876 Mr. Harris found a place on the editorial staff of The Constitution, of which paper he later became editor. To The Constitution he first contributed the folk-lore tales of the negroes and he created "Uncle Remus" and the little nephew for the Sunday issues of that paper. When "Uncle Remus" appeared in book form Harris wrote for it an introduction on Afro-American folk-lore which attracted the attention of philologists and students in Europe as well as in this country. "The New International Encyclopedia" says of Mr. Harris: "No one has more successfully portrayed the humorous side of negro character and imagination, but it would be injustice to him to think that he has not also given an admirable picture of Georgia life in general, especially of the thrifty as well as of the thriftless rural inhabitants." Mr. Harris was before all a practical journalist and during many years he has provided for a constantly growing constituency to whom he was "Uncle Remus." Among his best-known books are all the "Uncle Remus" volumes; "Mingo and Other Sketches in Black and White," "Free Joe and Other Georgia Sketches," "On the Plantation," "Little Mr. Thimblefinger," "Daddy Jake, the Runaway," "Balaam and His Master," "Gabriel Tolliver," "The Tar Baby Story," "Mr. Rabbit at Home," etc. Last year he started Uncle Remus's Magazine, which, since it absorbed The Home Magazine, has been entitled Uncle Remus's The Home Magazine.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS has returned from his trip abroad. His travel papers, "Roman Holidays," contributed to the New York Sun, will probably appear in book form this fall.

THE Paris correspondent of the London Athenæum states that M. Maeterlinck is working at his home in Normandy on his new drama, "Marie-Magdeleine." The writer adds that "in spite of what this title seems to hint, the subject matter of the play is not mystical, and the new work has nothing to do with dramas of dream and legend; it is rather in the style of 'Monna Vanna,' which marks an evolution of Maeterlinck's talent toward reality and drama meant for the stage." This play is to be acted next winter.

WHILE Mrs. Ward was in America, or more properly in Canada, she celebrated her fifty-seventh birthday, which occurred June 11. Mrs. Ward's birthplace was not England, but Tasmania, where she was first known as Mary Augusta Arnold, granddaughter of the famous Dr. Arnold who wrote the "Tom Brown" stories, and as the niece of Matthew Arnold. Another relative of note was her brother, William Thomas Arnold, the journalist and historian, upon whose "Life and Letters" Mrs. Ward collaborated, in a volume imported by the Harpers into this country, with Arnold's friend, C. E. Montague.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Benjamin F. Cator has been appointed receiver for the Doxey Bookshop Company. The company consents to the receivership, saying that it has on hand a large stock of stationery and books in excess of its liabilities, but that owing to the stringency it is unable to realize upon them in time to meet its obligations.

PORTLAND, ME.—Loring, Short & Harmon have shown quick work in already having temporarily housed their various departments, so as to interfere as little as possible with the conduct of the business. The retail department is being located in the Hooper Building for the present, and the wholesale department will go to the store on Exchange Street formerly occupied by Hall L. Davis. The bindery will be located in the Lakeside Press Building for the time being, while the card plate business will be done at Abner W. Lowell's, on Congress Street.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

Charles Scribner's Sons have made arrangements with President Roosevelt to publish the stories he intends to write on his experiences in Africa when he goes there to hunt big game next year. They have acquired the serial as well as the book rights. This is a prize that was also eagerly but unsuccessfully sought by a number of other publishers.

B. W. Dodge & Co. have in preparation a volume of poems entitled "The Quiet Singer," by Charles Hanson Towne, editor of Smart Set; also, "The Broken Snare," described as a psychological romance, by Ludwig Lewisohn, a well-known contributor to the magazines.

Longmans, Green & Co. will publish shortly "Memorials of Two Sisters: Susanna and Catherine Winkworth," edited by their niece, which will contain several letters of literary interest. They have in press Andrew Lang's "Life of Sir George Mackenzie, the King's Advocate, 1636-91," with portraits. Many unpublished letters have been consulted, and an account is given of Mackenzie's novel "Aretina."

The Frank Allaben Genealogical Company, 3 W. Forty-second Street, New York City, will publish this month a "Life of General John Watts de Peyster," by Frank Allaben, who was fortunate in finding a large part of his material in an autobiography found after the death of the doughty old soldier, writer and philantropist. The publishers announce that this is to be the first of a series of biographies of distinguished Americans.

The Outing Publishing Company will publish this month a book entitled "The Last of the Frontiersmen," by Dr. Zane Grey. It is partly an account of a hunting trip through the wildest region of Arizona—the north rim of the Grand Canyon—and partly a study of the celebrated old frontiersman, Buffalo Jones, who was the leader of the party. The object of the expedition was to lasso and capture alive mountain lions, at which dangerous sport Buffalo Jones is an expert.

The John Lane Company will bring out shortly Richard Mansfield's great success, "Beau Brummel." The play has been mistakenly referred to in connection with its production on the stage as by Clyde Fitch and Richard Mansfield. The play was written by Clyde Fitch for Richard Mansfield, and the authorship is so noted on the title-page of the book. A number of full-page plates showing Richard Mansfield and other members of his company in character are included among the illustrations. The frontispiece will be a reproduction of a portrait of the actor with facsimilie autograph.

G. P. Putnam's Sons publish this week "Villa Rubein," by John Galsworthy, a story with characters all of nature's stamp and strangely contrasted; the fourth and concluding volume of "The Writings of Samuel Adams," edited by Dr. Harry Alonzo Cushing; H. Stuart Jones's volume on "The Roman Empire, B.C. 29 A.D. 476," in The Story of the Nations series; also, the second volume of Dr. Lucien Howe's important work on "The Muscles of the Eye," devoted to the pathology and treatment of the subject. They will bring out on the 15th inst. "Marotz," by John Ayscough, a present-day story containing vivid word pictures of Southern Italian and Sicilian life.

Duffield & Co. have in preparation for the fall Elinor Glyn's new book, "Elizabeth Visits America." In it the Elizabeth of former years and European experiences comes to this country and gives her impressions of the people and things she finds here. They promise for September a volume entitled "Scottish Women of the Past," by Harry Graham, author of "Misrepresentative Men," etc. This will be Captain Graham's first serious prose work. In it he has collected a number of types of Scottish feminine character, presented in a series of biographical portraits, in which he aims to suggest something of the general life and manners of the particular period to which the main figures of his book belong.

D. Appleton & Co. have in preparation a novel by Myra Kelly, entitled "Sheila," a story of an Irish girl in Ireland. Interspersed with the story are pictures of life in Ireland as it was in 1880, the time of the Phœnix Park murders, a period marked by unusually exciting political campaigns. Like the author's short stories, there is a good deal of humor in the book mixed with a strain of pathos that is somewhat new to her. On their list of juvenile books to be brought out this fall is a volume by Molly Elliot Seawell, author of "Little Jarvis," etc., entitled "The Imprisoned Midshipmen," the story of two boys who sailed as midshipmen under Commodore Bainbridge and were taken prisoners by the Tripolitans after the heroic fight which attended the capture of the famous old frigate Philadelphia.

Grosset & Dunlap have just ready a new book by L. T. Meade, entitled "Betty of the Rectory." Betty is said to be a veritable "Angel in the House," and one of the most charming characters created by Mrs. Meade. Burdened on the eve of her marriage with the knowledge that her husband-to-be held a dread secret which she would not have him reveal, she bravely lives her life as the wife of the rector. When the secret does come out she sets herself as bravely to fight the great evil which threatens ruin to her loved one and to herself. How she fought and conquered, influenced and controlled the other characters forms a story by a practised hand that never fails to weave a fascinating romance.

Houghton, Mifflin & Company have just completed arrangements with Professor James H. Moffatt for the publication of "A Dictionary of the Proper Names in Shakespeare's Works." The book is the result of experience as a teacher and editor of Shakespeare. Mr. Moffatt is a graduate of Princeton, and for the last eight years has been Professor of English Literature at the Central High School of Philadelphia. The plan of the dictionary is very simple but thorough. All the proper names in Shakespeare's works, whether dramatis personæ or scenes or names used as illustrations, will be included in alphabetical order. This book will appeal to every student of Shakespeare, for in it can be found the only complete references to all places in which Shakespeare refers to the names directly or indirectly. Mr. Moffatt is now at work on the book in Oxford and London.

FUNK & WAGNALLS are about to publish a practical book on "How to Get a Position and How to Keep It," by S. Roland Hall, who has been connected with a large correspondence school and has had much experience in getting positions for young men. He gives much practical advice on letters of application, personal application, what is good and bad form, etc. They also expect to have ready this month a volume entitled "A Commonsense View of the Mind Cure," by Laura M. Westall, who would explain and justify a good deal of the success of the mind cure as applied to a great many illnesses. Her book does not endeavor to show that the mind can cure actual organic diseases, but rather the common functional disorders can be cured or driven away by the use of will power. The book is scientific, and is in no way to be regarded as a contribution to Christian Science, in the ordinary sense of the word.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY have just ready "In Ship and Prison," by William P. Chipman, the incidents of which are taken from the logbook of Captain Samuel Tucker, and picture the stirring times in which he lived and the thrilling adventures in which he engaged. His prowess on the sea, his wonderful naval manœuvres, his capture by the British, his escape from their prison, will arouse the patriotism and admiration of every young American, for the brave captain, who as yet has never come into his own, in the hearts of his countrymen. The book has four half-tone illustrations. For older readers they have also just ready "In Borderland and the Blue Beyond," by Mrs. Leigh Gross Day, author of "In Shadow Town." The author has this time used her camera, brush and pen to tell by verse and picture of that sweet, indefinable time when children linger with reluctant feet on the border of manhood and womanhood. She takes her readers on a bit further—down the "primrose path" of courtship as her fancy sees it, where the first flutter of the love god's wings makes the maiden shy and the lover bold.

W. H. MINER, Cedar Rapids, Ia., will publish for the Dickens Fellowship a volume entitled "The Dickens Ball." The volume contains a reprint of the account in the New York Aurora of the ball given in honor of Charles Dickens on his first visit to this country in 1842. This broadside in itself is of utmost rarity and contains not only the story of the event, but reproduces portraits of Dickens and his wife, and a scene from the brilliant affair. Into this work entered the highest newspaper art of its time—including sarcasm and comment—well adapted to cause prejudice and ill feeling upon the part of the individual to whom it referred. As the Englishman was the lion of the day it is easy to believe that this publication has become very scarce and it has therefore been reprinted in its entirety and made particularly interesting to the collector by the addition of a commentary on the text by W. P. Beazell, and the inclusion of a letter from Dickens to Foster relating to the subject. The edition is limited. Two hundred and six copies are being made and will be ready for delivery about August first.

HENRY HOLT & COMPANY will publish shortly an untechnical account of the rise and progress of biology, entitled "Biology and Its Makers," by Professor William A. Locy, of Northwestern University. The work is written around the lives of the great leaders in this field, and includes some 120 illustrations, many of them rare portraits of the founders of biology. They will publish next month a work entitled "Canadian Types of the Old Régime," by Charles W. Colby, Professor of History in McGill University. The history of French civilization in this country, as handled by Professor Colby, is grouped around the personalities of Champlain, the explorer; Brebeuf, the missionary; Hebert, the colonist; D'Iberville, the soldier; Talon, the intendant; Laval, the Bishop, and Frontenac, the Governor. There are also chapters on the historical background of the subject, as well as on the results of the English conquest. The book will contain eighteen illustrations. Another August book will be "Angel, Esquire," by Edgar Wallace, a detective story, in which an inexperienced girl contends with three daring criminals for an inheritance mounting up into the millions.

THE MCCLURE COMPANY have just ready the second edition of "The Wayfarers," by Mary Stewart Cutting, author of "Little Stories of Married Life," etc., in which she depicts middle-class American life on a large scale; also, in their Country Home Library, a volume on "The Vegetable Garden," by Miss Ida Bennett, author of "The Flower Garden," in the same series. Besides dealing fully with the various vegetables that form the staple of the small garden, this book has excellent chapters on tools, all thoroughly up to date and full of practical information. They have in preparation a book by Mrs. Leonidas Hubbard,bard, Jr., entitled "A Woman's Way Through Unknown Labrador." The tragedy of the Hubbard expedition of 1903, undertaken under the auspices of The Outing Magazine, and of how Leonidas Hubbard missed his way and died of starvation in the wilderness, is well known. The account of his journey was unfinished, but his devoted wife essays to complete his task. In July, 1905, after the recovery of her husband's body, she started from Hudson Bay post on the Northwest River, accompanied by four men, one of them her husband's former companion, George Elson, and a Cree Indian, a Russian half breed and a young Eskimo. The journey through the wilderness along the mountain bear paths and river rapids occupied forty-three days and they travelled 576 miles from post to post. The result is a book of marvellous fascination.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. Dorothy and the Wizard in Oz

By L. Frank Baum

"The Wizard of Oz Man"

This new "OZ" book continues Mr. Baum's fascinating wonder-tale about the Land of Oz and its charming fairy folk. Dorothy, together with a little boy companion, "Zeb," and "Jim, the Cab Horse," are swallowed up in an earthquake, only to reach a strange "vegetable" land whence, by the aid of the Wizard of Oz, whom they meet there, they escape to the Land of Oz and renew acquaintance with the Princess Ozma, The Scarecrow, The Tin Woodman, The Cowardly Lion and all the old favorites. Among the new and delightful characters are "Eureka," Dorothy's pink kitten, and "The Nine Tiny Piglets."

Joel Chandler Harris

Joel Chandler Harris

The NATION writes:

"The news of the death of Joel Chandler Harris will bring a sense of personal loss to readers all over the English-speaking world. Few modern writers were more widely known, still fewer will be remembered more affectionately. His popularity was due chiefly to the dialect stories founded on bits of negro folklore, and filled with imagination, delightful simplicity, and characteristically quaint humor, but he had also a large body of other readers for his more ambitious stories and his miscellaneous writings."

HIS BOOKS:

Uncle Remus and his Friends. With 12 full-page Illus. by A. B. FROST. $1.50.
Nights with Uncle Remus. Illustrated. $1.50; paper, 50 cents.
Mingo, and Other Sketches in Black and White. 16mo, $1.25.
Balaam and his Master, and Other Sketches and Stories. 16mo, $1.25.
Sister Jane, her Friends and Acquaintances. $1.50.
Tales of the Home Folks in Peace and War. With Illustrations by E. BOYD SMITH. $1.50.

Each of the following, profusely illustrated, $2.00:

Little Mr. Thimblefinger and his Queer Country.
Mr. Rabbit at Home.
The Story of Aaron (so-named), the Son of Ben Ali.
Aaron in the Wildwoods.
Plantation Pageants.

FOUR BOOKS THAT ARE AMONG THE SUMMER'S "SUCCESSES"

ANNE OF GREEN GABLES

By L. M. MONTGOMERY Illustrated. $1.50

The critics and public are agreed that Anne is bound to be the most popular Summer girl—a delightful acquisition to any vacation party.

"A literary bouquet, suitably summed up by Marilla's shrewd verdict concerning its namesake and subject—'No house will be ever dull that she's in.'"
—The Chicago Record-Herald.

THE CALL OF THE SOUTH

By ROBERT LEE DURHAM Illustrated. $1.50

Mr. Durham's powerful novel dealing with the race question continues to be one of the most discussed works of fiction of the year.

"'A terrific story, but a true one.' That is what the thinking world is saying concerning THE CALL OF THE SOUTH."—The Baltimore Sun.

PEGGY AT SPINSTER FARM

By HELEN M. WINSLOW Illustrated. $1.50

Miss Winslow is one of the most prominent clubwomen of the country, and her views are always of interest. "Peggy" is proving a delight to thousands of women, as the record of an experiment made by one of their sex, and a vade mecum for countless others.

The MAKING of PERSONALITY

By BLISS CARMAN Boxed. $1.50

Not since the publication of "The Simple Life" has a volume of essays attracted such general attention as Mr. Carman's new book.

"A beautiful contribution to that oldest of all the arts, the art of living, which we are all, by reason of our existence, compelled to face. He has caught the breezy spirit of Robert Louis Stevenson."—Current Literature.

READY AT ONCE

A NEW VOLUME OF SEA STORIES

THE BLUE PETER

By MORLEY ROBERTS Illustrated. $1.50

"If any one writes better sea stories than Mr. Roberts, we don't know who it is," says the New York Sun.

When THE FLYING CLOUD, Mr. Roberts' first long sea story was published, the New York Times Saturday Review said: "It is the drama of the sea; human nature stripped naked by salt water alchemy and painted only as the author or Joseph Conrad could paint it. . . . A corking story, a ripping good story."

NOTES IN SEASON.

PUBLISHERS' CATALOGUES for insertion in the "Trade List Annual for 1908," must reach the binders, J. F. Tapley Co., 531 West 37th Street, New York City, on or before July 31.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO. will bring out on July 25 a story by a new writer, Mrs. Nellie L. McClung, entitled "Sowing Seeds in Danny." The story is of a humorous character and has to do with the bringing up of "Danny," in whom the "Pink Lady" sows seeds, largely for the sake of her report to the next annual convention of the Society for Propagation of Lofty Ideals.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just ready the third volume of Professor John Bassett Moore's edition of "The Works of James Buchanan," which covers the period of our country's political history from the beginning of 1836 to the middle of 1838. They have also just brought out a work on "Practical Metallurgy," by Thomas Turner, which is intended to serve as a general introduction to the subject for the beginners.

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN CO. call attention to the following of Joel Chandler Harris's books on their list: "Uncle Remus and His Friends," with illustrations by A. B. Frost; "Nights with Uncle Remus," "Mingo," "Balaam and His Master," "Sister Jane," "Tales of the Home Folks in Peace and War," "Little Mr. Thimblefinger," "Mr. Rabbit at Home," "The Story of Aaron," "Aaron in the Wildwoods" and "Plantation Pageants." Nearly all of these volumes have illustrations and retail at from fifty cents to $2.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY will publish on July 25 "The Car and the Lady," by Percy F. Megargel and Grace Sartwell Mason. Mr. Megargel is known as a long-distance motor driver in this country, having driven during the last three years various machines from New York City to St. Louis, to Portland, Ore., to Los Angeles, Cal., etc. Grace S. Mason is a well-known contributor to the Saturday Evening Post and other journals, and this collaboration promises to be most successful. The forthcoming story, in which he collaborates with Miss Mason, is described as one of active love and business rivalry between an Italian designer and driver of high-grade foreign cars and a young American manufacturer. The conflict is to be decided in favor of the winner of this race from New York to Portland, and the competitors put up $50,000 between them.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY will publish shortly a new book for boys by Herbert E. Strang, to be entitled "King of the Air." In this story, the plot of which was suggested to the author by the daring capture by Raisuli of Kaid McLean, the British Commissioner to Morocco, the young hero, having a turn for mechanical invention, contrives a machine that represents a great advance on what has previously been accomplished in the direction of aerial navigation. He has nearly perfected his invention when a British diplomat is captured by Morocco tribesmen, and his assistance is invoked in order to rescue the captive without negotiations that may involve international difficulties. The story tells of the adventures that befall him in his perilous mission, and, thanks to the author's knowledge of Eastern races, throws light on the problems that call for solution in Morocco.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

☞ The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. American catalog (The), 1905-1907: full title entries; being a reprint of full titles, with annotations, for the three years 1905, 1906, 1907, of the Weekly Record of The Publishers' Weekly. N. Y., Office of The Publishers' Weekly, 1908. c. 329+352+466 p. Q. hf. mor., $6.

This volume and the Index to it, entered June 27 in "Weekly Record," form the three years' record of the publications of the United States. It was first planned to include all this material once more in a five years' cumulation, but it would be too bulky and far too expensive. The American Catalogue will therefore be cumulated every three years. The directory of publishers for the three years included in the Index volume is also issued separately. See below in this issue.

Atlay, J. B. The Victorian chancellors. In 2 v. v. 2, Lord St. Leonards, Lord Cranworth, Lord Chelmsford, Lord Campbell, Lord Westbury, Lord Cairns, Lord Hatherly, Lord Selborne, Lord Halsbury, and Lord Herschell; with portraits. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1908. 11+476 p. 8°, cl., *$4 net.

Burba, G: Francis. Our bird friends; containing many things young folks ought to know—and likewise grown-ups. N. Y., Outing Publishing Co., 1908. c. 3-152 p. pls. O. cl., $1.

A book written for real children, and one they will be sure to listen to. In an attractive, conversational way the author tells them a great many things they (and their parents, too,) have never known before, and gives the "reason why" for many more things they have all seen but never understood. Contains 10 large pictures of birds, showing their natural colors.

Burns, Rob. Poems and letters in the handwriting of Robert Burns reproduced in facsimile through the courtesy of W: K. Bixby and F: W. Said to be the first book of Chinese stories ever printed in English. The stories, familiar in the home and school life of the children of China, show different phases of the character of a people in the very processes of formation. It is earnestly hoped that this English presentation of them will help a little towards a better understanding and appreciation of Chinese characters as a whole. Designed for supplementary reading.

The real diary of a real farm—a farm that is made to pay, not a fancy place for elaborate experiments. The precarious condition of English farming, the problems of laborers, land and crops are dealt with, and much practical, though not technical, information is given, but the chief charm of the book lies in the exquisite descriptions of rustic scenery through all its changes, from the time when "one crocus opened its golden cup on the slope of the lawn bank," till the days of December sunrises, "enough to drive a painter mad with envy and despair."

Herrick, Rob. Together. N. Y., Macmillan, 1908. c. 3-595 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

This novel is a study of married life in the United States to-day. The scene shifts from an inland town to St. Louis, then to New York, with intervals of rest on a farm in Vermont. The husbands devoted wholly to business, the wives wholly to selfish pleasures, the unrest, the physical ill-health, the moral dangers of this plan of living are described in boldest language. Incidentally the great railroad trusts, the specialist physicians, the vast hotels are graphically pictured. That man and woman are both to blame for the circumstances from which both suffer is the keynote.

Hewitt, Mrs. Emma Churchman. How to train children. Phil., George W. Jacobs & Co., [1908.] c. 192 p. S. cl., 50 c.

Author was former Associate Editor of The Ladies' Home Journal. It is a condensed account of the actual experiences of actual mothers. The author believes in heredity, physical, moral and mental, and wishes to impress upon her readers how every condition of body and mind may have consequences in future years.

The author is professor of mathematics in the Michigan State Normal College, Ypsilanti, Michigan. His preface says: "The author of this book has found in his experience that students are interested in the study of mathematics only in so far as they are able to think their way through the work. Consequently, the attempt has been made to prepare a geometry through which it will not only be possible but necessary for the student to work his way, relying on his own reasoning powers. Demonstrations of the more difficult theories have been given in full."

Nicholas, Francis. The power supreme: a novel of church and state in South America; il. by W: Kirkpatrick. Bost., R. E. Lee Co., 1908. c. 8+347 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The story is in the form of an autobiography. It begins with the childhood of the hero, who is the natural son of a Spanish rubber merchant. The power exercised by the Spanish government, through the church in past days, and the cruel and dishonest treatment received by the natives who gather the rubber is realistically portrayed. The period is a revolutionary one, the politics of the time being intelligently described. The author travelled and explored largely in South Africa, living and travelling with the natives, from whom he gathered many of the facts. He has written "Around the Caribbean and across Panama" and other works.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 18, 1908.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE SUMMER CAMPAIGN.

WITH the dog days upon us, and plans for summer and vacation pleasures arranged for or under debate, the bookseller who would keep up an active interest in his business must begin now, if he has not already taken steps in that direction, to make his store attractive for the jaded customer that remains in town, and to follow, so far as it may be possible, his old clients to their "bungalows" or whatever other form their resting-places for the summer may assume.

The store, in the first place, should be kept cool by admitting as little sunlight as possible during the hotter part of the day, and by installing electric fans if the store cannot otherwise be kept at a low temperature. All fussy decorations should be removed, and the tables arranged so as to afford the customer plenty of elbow room and a sense of freedom to loaf.

The windows should be dressed in summer garb and suggest the season in everything displayed. The basis of the book-window dressing might be cool green and white tissue papers or muslins that easily lend themselves to decorations for the floor and sides of the window. The books to be selected should be such as commend themselves to the summer lounger, whether he is contemplating an excursion to the seashore or mountain, or is a stay-at-home or a visitor to town. The new novels will take a prominent place; these may be supplemented with the cheaper issues of good novels, nature books, books on fishing and out-door sports in general, guide books, etc. While bringing these lighter classes of books to the front, the more serious books must not be overlooked. This is the season of the year when readers have leisure, and the right kind of a book if properly presented to the right person will have as a good a chance of a sale as its lighter and more ephemeral companion—and with a better profit.

In the window devoted to stationery, fancy goods, etc., the outdoor goods, games, hammocks, fancy paper napkins, Chinese lanterns, flags, sporting goods in general, photo supplies and the like should be judiciously displayed alternately with writing papers and envelopes, leather goods and cutlery apt to be used by tourists and vacationists. The bookseller's facilities for printing visiting cards, preparing individual stationery, etc., should also be prominently featured. These windows should be changed frequently and should never be crowded.

A post-card display should be a regular feature throughout the summer season, and should be within easy reach of the customer, with the local cards in a prominent place, because in these the visitor is apt to be most interested at first. There are now a dozen or more post-card racks on the market which will be found helpful in displaying the cards to the best advantage.

An important aid in summer bookselling is a tempting house-catalogue. This should be prepared with a view of bringing to the special attention of summer visitors the most attractive books not only of the present season but also of other seasons, with a hint of the delights stored in them. Appended to the book list may be a brief resumé of the other seasonable goods, stationery, etc., kept in stock. Such a catalogue will be found serviceable by two classes of trade: by city dealers with regular customers whom it is desirable to follow "with the compliments of the season" into their summer haunts, and who may retain trade by filling orders by mail for those who go far out of sight of any bookstore, but can be cultivated by the aid of the post-office; and by booksellers who desire to pleasantly acquaint summer visitors that there is a bookstore near at hand from which their wants can be supplied. With such an aid old customers may be retained, and with energy and foresight much new trade can be created.

Another summer "wrinkle" is housecleaning. Stock during July and August is apt to be at its lowest, transient trade will be slow, and the assistants will have time that cannot be employed to better advantage. Obsolete or broken and damaged stock and other impedimenta should be weeded out and displayed at prices that will appeal to "shoppers" and tempt "bargain hunters."

People are slow to think in this weather and need to be reminded—even to be prodded. Hence, the bookseller, during a season that to most people means a period of recreation or loafing, must be ever more active and watchful to maintain the continuity of business and to "bridge over" until the fall and holiday season brings relief.

CONTINUANCE OF THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION ASSURED.

A MEETING of the American Publishers' Association was held in the Presbyterian Building, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City, at 2 P.M., July 15, in response to a call issued on July 2 by the Board of Directors, to consider the continuance and the future administration of the Association in view of the probable resignation of certain firms who are affected by the text-book situation in Texas and other States. The principals and representatives of about thirty members of the Association, from New York City, Boston and Philadelphia, were present, and, in the absence of Frank H. Dodd, the president, who is on his way to Europe, Frank H. Scott, of the Century Company, presided.

A resolution looking to an amendment of the by-laws governing legal proceedings was approved, and it was the unanimous feeling of all those present that the contemplated withdrawals should not affect the policy of the Association, which should continue as heretofore.

TO SAVE BOOKSTORES FROM EXTINCTION.

REFERRING to the court decision rendered last week in regard to the control of prices of copyrighted books, Frank H. Dodd, president of the American Publishers' Association, made the following statement on July 10:

"The decision of the Appellate Division of the New York Supreme Court, handed down July 8, in the case of R. H. Macy & Co. vs. The American Publishers' Association, affirms the decision of Judge Dowling, of the Supreme Court, in behalf of the publishers, declaring that Macy's were not entitled to damages on account of the publishers' refusal to sell them copyrighted books. The effect of this decision is that the former agreement of the members of the American Publishers' Association not to sell copyrighted books to Macy's is declared to be a proper and legal agreement, and not in any way violating the anti-trust laws.

"The statements which have heretofore appeared in the daily journals as to the litigation between publishers and undersellers have come almost exclusively from one side. The interest expressed in the matter by the general public, however, seems now to call for some statement on behalf of the publishers.

"Such headlines as 'Publishers Aghast at the Supreme Court Decision' are entirely without warrant. The facts are briefly as follows: The American Publishers' Association was organized seven years ago under the laws of the State of New York, and the agreement then made between its members has been declared by the highest court of the State to be lawful, so far as copyrighted books are concerned. This declaration has been upheld in various proceedings by the lower courts again and again, and stands unaltered. This organization was formed under the advice of eminent counsel not associated with the formation of trusts. The publishers have not done anything contrary to law or fair dealing, and when they were advised that, while lawful in the State of New York, certain conditions of their agreement might be called into question in other States under the Sherman anti-trust act they nearly two years ago abrogated it, and the publisher who wishes to regulate the prices at which his own copyrighted books shall be sold is exercising for himself solely his undoubted right to do so. The suits which have recently been decided in the United States Supreme Court were brought to test the question as to whether the violation of conditions of sale of a copyrighted book was in itself an infringement of the copyright. This the court has denied, but there is nothing in the decision which affects the right of a publisher to impose such conditions of sale on his copyrighted books as he may find advisable. Neither the United States Supreme Court nor the Circuit Court of Appeals has held that the American Publishers' Association is illegal or acting in restraint of trade, though every effort was made by Macy's counsel to have it so held. There is no decision in any of our courts which obliges a publisher to supply his copyrighted books except upon his own terms.

"The object which the publishers have all along had in view is not to increase their own prices or profits, but to guarantee dealers in books a fair profit such as will enable them to maintain themselves, and thus to preserve the bookstore from decline or even extinction. It is not always realized that this occupation so serviceable, if not vital, to the intelligence of the community is yet, in the nature of the case, poorly remunerated. Compared with those dealing in the necessaries or even luxuries of life, it is of small volume, infinite detail, and large expense in proportion to the output. It requires special training and unusual intelligence. Not only must a bookseller by familiar with the names, publishers, and contents of the 8000 or 10,000 new books issued every year, but also with 50,000 to 100,000 older books which are in print and demanded from time to time, to say nothing of the vast field of old books. This applies to the business of the bookstore proper and to some of the best of the department stores. In many of the department stores, however, books are dealt with in a different fashion. Their stock consists almost entirely of cheap reprints of standard authors and the more popular novels of the day. As can readily be seen, this plan excludes from display and sale the more serious books of literary value which are really the more important.

"The publishers have tried not only to conserve the bookstores, but to foster the business of department stores in the better class of literature. This can only be done by the assurance of a fair profit. Should they be unsuccessful the inevitable outcome will be a lessened output of the more serious and valuable books. The difficulty of selling these has already increased to a serious extent. The progressive publisher will, of course, adapt himself to the market, and should it become necessary for him to publish nothing but light fiction he can do so. But if the business had no higher ideals than this many of those who have given their lives to it would be engaged in other and more remunerative callings.

"Statements which have recently been made by the undersellers mentioned as to the inordinate profits in publishing are so erroneous in detail and so misleading in their deductions that it is incredible that those making them really believe them to be true. They leave entirely out of account not only the plant, (including the typesetting, illustrations, author's corrections and plates,) which must be created before a book can be manufactured, but the entire cost of conducting a business of which each book must bear its share. The share which each copy must bear of the cost of the plant depends upon the number sold, and in many cases enough are never sold to cover it, to say nothing of the author's royalties, which are far higher than has been represented, and the advertising, a large item. For making a similar statement the London Times was compelled to pay to Mr. John Murray damages for libel to the extent of $37,500. In the trial of the case all the facts concerning the book in question, 'The Life of Queen Victoria,' which was alleged to be published at an inordinate price and at an extortionate profit, were brought out, and it was proved that the profit of the publisher had been so small as to be entirely inadequate for the risk and capital involved.

"In their effort to protect the bookselling business the American publishers have only been doing what has been sanctioned by long established law and custom in Germany for two hundred years, and in all the countries of Europe for a greater or less time. It is only in the United States that any question has arisen as to the right of the publishers to control the conditions under which books are sold. The question has arisen here mainly in connection with the misapplication to the American Publishers' Association of the term 'trust,' and with the application to the selling of books of certain provisions in the anti-trust laws, which laws had been framed to protect the interests of the community against corporations that actually were carrying on operations as trusts; that is, for the purpose, through the stifling of competition, of increasing selling prices.

"FRANK H. DODD,
"President American Publishers' Association."

Booksellers will serve their own interests by giving wide publicity among their customers to the above statement, copies of which will be supplied, upon application, by F. C. J. Tessaro, Manager American Publishers' Association, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS APPEAL.

THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION, through its president, Herman Ridder, has sent to President Roosevelt a letter invoking his aid in the association's effort to stop the oppression of paper combinations.

Mr. Ridder recalls that the association had been informed that the courts would provide adequate remedies and had submitted its evidence against seven groups of paper makers. The result had been insignificant. The Fibre and Manila Association, the only one brought to book, got off easy, says Mr. Ridder. "We maintain," he says, "that such a finish to the procedure is a miscarriage of justice. When a fine of $48,000 is imposed for an extortion of $2,000,000 it places a premium upon lawlessness and brings vividly to us a realization of the hopelessness of relief under methods that prevail, especially when the United States District Attorney, while granting immunity to the individuals, urges leniency for the corporations which employ them."

Mr. Ridder says also:

So far as we have been able to learn no steps have been taken against the Box Board Pool or against the Sulphite Pulp Association, whose by-laws and membership were submitted to the Department of Justice eight months ago, or against the other offenders.

The operations of the Box Board Pool in twenty-six months included invoices of $32,000,000, with net profits of $4,835,652 on 853,677 tons.

The counsel of the paper makers who pleaded guilty in New York on the 19th inst. stated that their output represented only 23 per cent. of the total production of wrapping paper. The letters set forth in the indictment and the books and records now in the possession of the United States District Attorney at New York indicate that the Western Fibre and Manila Mills, which were under distinct prohibition against restriction of output, met in November, 1907, and decided to restrict production. We are confident those records will also disclose the methods by which the 23 per cent. of indicted paper makers secured the co-operation of the other 77 per cent. to maintain the extraordinary advances in price.

Mr. Ridder cites instances which he thinks a jury ought to look into. Again he says:

The Fibre and Manila Association, the Box Board Pool and the Sulphite Pulp Association—each and all affect the news print paper situation. When mills which can be changed to make news print paper with slight cost are made excessively profitable in other directions by these pooling arrangements then their equipment is kept out of news print paper production and a news print paper famine is promoted. Meanwhile the news print paper companies are aiming to maintain what are believed to be "agreed prices," and are keeping their mills partially closed because the consumers will not buy more than a hand to mouth supply at the present high figures.

In view of the seeming immunity of individuals, the inadequacy of penalties and the apparent hopelessness of relief, does not this situation require drastic treatment? May we not ask you to bring these law breakers to their senses and to end a lawless condition which interferes with a return of prosperity?

JUSTICE DEUEL UPHELD.

THE Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in New York City sustained on the 8th inst., unanimously, the findings of ex-Justice Stover, who, as referee, reported adversely on the application of Robert J. Collier, District Attorney Jerome and Edward M. Shepard for the removal of Justice Deuel of the Court of Special Sessions, because of his connection with Town Topics.

THE INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF ANTIQUARIAN BOOKSELLERS.

THE title of the Second-hand Booksellers' Association, of London, has been changed to The International Association of Antiquarian Booksellers. The reason for the change is that a number of booksellers in various parts of the world have become members. This extension of membership has proved extremely useful to all concerned, since information can now be obtained, and be registered in a central bureau, respecting persons who order on credit. The subscription is five shillings per annum. An enquiry fee respecting any person in any part of the world is sixpence. Application for accounts which members find themselves unable to collect is made for a fee of sixpence, and 5 per cent. is charged upon the amount collected by means of the Association, when the amount does not exceed £5, and 2½ per cent. on larger amounts.

The following American firms are among the members of the committee: Charles E. Goodspeed, Boston, and the Shepard Book Company, Salt Lake City.

All communications should be addressed to the honorary secretary, Frank Karslake, 35 Pond Street, Hampstead, London, N. W.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S PUBLISHERS.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS to correct certain erroneous impressions of President Roosevelt's publishing relations that were circulated last week have published the following letter:

". . .'Since the beginning of his career as an author, with the publication, in 1882, of 'The War of 1812,' the writings of Mr. Roosevelt have been issued by G. P. Putnam's Sons, in London as well as in New York.

"The set of Roosevelt's works continues to be issued by our house in a variety of editions. The only Roosevelt volumes not bearing the Putnam imprint cover certain productions which the author found it to his advantage to bring into print first as serials in magazines. We may mention that Mr. Roosevelt is still under contract with us for the completion of his important historical narrative, The Winning of the West, which is to be brought down to the close of the Mexican war. The publishers found it necessary, in connection with the rather pressing claims upon the time of their author in the last eight years, to extend the time for the fulfillment of this contract. G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS."

ANOTHER BOOK THIEF AT LARGE.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: We should like to warn the trade against one I. J. Rogers, a singer, who was caught stealing books from our store. He is about thirty-seven years old, over six feet tall, dark, with short mustache, and weighs about 175 pounds. He is very genteel in manner and appearance, and usually operates with a suit case.

AMERICAN FICTION IN DEMAND IN MAY.

THE following, according to The Bookman, are the six most popular novels in order of demand during the month of May:

	POINTS.
1. Mr. Crewe's Career. Churchill. Macmillan	301
2. The Barrier. Beach. Harper	245
3. The Coast of Chance. Chamberlain. Bobbs-Merrill	139
4. The Husbands of Edith. McCutcheon. Dodd, Mead	125
5. Old Wives for New. Phillips. Appleton	56
The Primadonna. Crawford. Macmillan	52
Rose MacLeod. Brown. Houghton, Mifflin	52

The list for April has been corrected so as to put "The Coast of Chance" in the fifth place instead of "The Lady of Decoration," which takes sixth place instead of "The Fair Moon of Bath," which thus disappears altogether from the list.

BOOKS IN DEMAND IN ENGLAND DURING JUNE.

ACCORDING to the London Book Monthly the following books were uppermost in demand in England during the month of June:

3. Pauline, by W. E. Norris. Constable.
4. Heather, by John Trevena. Alston Rivers.
5. The Red Lily, by Anatole France, translated by Winifred Stephens. John Lane.
6. The Shoulders of Atlas, by Mary E. Wilkins Freeman. Harpers.

OBITUARY NOTES.

FERDINAND MORAS, who died at Germantown, Pa., July 10, was one of the first to establish a lithographic plant in this country. In 1854 he put up a lithographic plant in Philadelphia, where he was in business for more than thirty years. In 1890 he retired from business. Mr. Moras was born in 1821 in Rhenish Prussia. Mr. Moras published a book of poems in 1882, of which he was the author, the illustrator and engraver.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON LAIDLAW, Jr., died on July 11, at his home in New York City. Mr. Laidlaw was born in Jersey City, N. J., July 7, 1869. For a time he was in the stationery business in Forty-second Street, New York City, as a member of the firm of Dixon & Laidlaw. His first novel, "Purgatory," was published in 1891. The following year he published "How She Married Him, and Other Stories," and "The Charms of Music," a play, was printed the same year. His produced plays were "The Darkest Hour," 1893; "An Angel's Sin," 1895; "Love as a Tonic," 1895; "The Going of the White Swan," 1895; "The Game of Three," 1896; "A Pair of Misfits," 1899; "Phyllis," an opera libretto, 1900, and "His Musical Friend," 1907. The music for "Phyllis" was written by Richard Henry Warren. It was produced by the Strollers Club, of which Mr. Laidlaw was a member, at the Waldorf-Astoria. Mr. Laidlaw also was a contributor to the magazines.

GENERAL ERASTUS BLAKESLEE, soldier, clergyman, author and editor, and prominent in the Sunday-school world as the author, editor and publisher of "Graded Sunday School Lessons," died at his home in Brookline, Mass., July 12. He was many times commended for his bravery during the war between the states, and his promotion to brevet brigadier-general was rapid. Turning to the ministry after the war, he won wide notice for his work in improving the study of the Bible in the Sunday schools. He was born at Plymouth, Conn., September 2, 1838. He was graduated from Williston Seminary in 1859; Yale in 1863, receiving the degree of Master of Arts one year later, and from Andover Theological Seminary in 1879. He held pastorates in Greenfield and Spencer, Mass., and Fairhaven, Conn. He was president of the Bible Study Publishing Company, an associate member of Victoria Institute, London, and a member of the Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MYRTLE REED has written a new story, entitled "Flower of the Dusk."

THE memory of Maria Mitchell, Nantucket's famous daughter, who during her lifetime attained world-wide fame as an astronomer, was honored on July 15 by the dedication and formal opening of an astronomical observatory and library building at Nantucket, Mass. The observatory contains astronomical instruments used by Miss Mitchell in many of her observations at Vassar College and other places that attracted tokens of appreciation from the kings of Denmark and Italy. The library sheltered in the memorial building is composed of the collection of Miss Mitchell and her brother, Professor Henry Mitchell.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE London Chronicle still insists that the new proprietors of The Times include Lord Rothschild, Lord Cromer and Lord Northcliffe, the last-named having a controlling interest.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish during the fall in Lippincott's Magazine two articles by Ouida that have reposed in their vaults in accordance with arrangement that they were not to be published until after the death of the writer. The articles, although written several years ago, are said to have a distinct bearing upon the "votes for women" campaign being carried out with such vigor in England and elsewhere at the present moment.

PERSONAL NOTES.

FRANK O. EVANS, of Raphael Tuck & Sons Company, sailed on the 10th inst. for a two-months' visit to Europe.

WILLIAM HARVEY MINER, who recently organized The Torch Press and its coadjutor, The Torch Press Book Shop, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., left for London on the 15th inst., accompanied by his wife. Mr. Miner goes abroad at this time primarily in the interest of the book department of his establishment, but will endeavor to secure a well-earned vacation as a "side line." He can be located at his London office, 43 Museum Street, until September 20.

BUSINESS NOTES.

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, MO.—E. T. Ashby has sold his book business to F. M. Applegate.

HOUSTON, TEX.—The Teetshorn Company, dealers in books, stationery and office supplies, have succeeded the Purdy Book and Stationery Company, and will continue business at 1009 Congress Avenue.

MUSCATINE, O.—The Wagner Brothers have purchased the book business of the Seiler Brothers, at 119 East Second Street. The new proprietors have already taken charge of the establishment.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—Professor U. S. Grant Moore and Guy I. Colby have organized a company to be known as the C. M. Book Company. The company will sell the books edited by the Rev. E. B. Rogers, of this city.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

LIBRACO, LTD., 60 Wilson Street, Finsbury Square, E. C., London, will bring out in August the third volume of the "L. A. Class List of Best Books and Annual of Bibliography, 1907-1908," edited by H. Y. Hopwood. The volume is published in connection with the Annual Exhibition of Best Books at the Conference of Libraries. Each subject is prepared by an expert, the contributors being H. R. Tedder, T. W. Lyster, H. Guppy, J. Peacock, J. Minto, J. Duff Brown, J. Woolmar and others. The classification adopted is, in the main, that of the Brussels extension of Dewey. A complete subject index is also provided. The first two volumes cover the period from 1905-1907. (Each, 1s. 6d. net.)

THE AMERICAN CERAMIC SOCIETY, Columbus, O., have undertaken the publication of the second edition of "A Bibliography of Clays and the Ceramic Arts," by Dr. John Casper Branner, the well-known geologist of Leland Stanford University. The original edition of this work, which is the only one of its kind, was published in 1896 as Bulletin 143 of the U. S. Geological Survey, and contained 2961 titles, as against 6027 titles contained in the new edition. The additions, however, are not entirely of titles published since 1896, but include many books and papers that were overlooked in the preparation of the first edition. The scope of the work is as broad as that for which the American Ceramic Society stands. Reference to the origin, character and distribution of clays and to the science and technique in manufacture of cement, brick, terra cotta, pottery, metal enamelling, ceramic decoration, etc., are given with proportional space and consideration. No student in any of these branches can afford to be without this bibliography. (8°, cl., $2.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE "House of the Seven Gables," at Salem, Mass., made famous by Nathaniel Hawthorne, was sold on July 9 to Miss Caroline C. Emmerton, who will turn it into a Settlement house.

THOMAS WHITTAKER, INC., has just brought out the third volume of "Mission Preaching for a Year," edited by the Rev. W. Henry Hunt. It contains sermons for the present Trinity season, selected from the writings of Bishop Knox, W. J. Sparrow Simpson, Scott Holland, et al.

P. BLAKISTON'S SON & CO. have just brought out the second volume of "Borderland Studies," by Dr. George M. Gould, a collection of essays and addresses dealing with a variety of medical and other problems, such as "The History of the House," "The Seven Deadly Sins of Civilization," "Child Fetiches," etc.

THE LAMB PUBLISHING COMPANY, 225 Fifth Avenue, New York City, has just issued its trade catalogue, and has fitted up an attractive sample room. Local and out-of-town buyers are cordially invited to examine their large and well-selected stock of sets in cloth and extra bindings, which are offered at advantageous prices.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & CO. will bring out early next month a new nature book by the blind naturalist, Clarence Hawkes, entitled "Black Bruin, an Autobiography of a Bear," which will tell the life story of an animal in the woods and in captivity. They have in preparation a cheap popular edition of Mr. Hawkes's early success, "Shaggy Coat," which has for its chief actor a beaver.

IN the issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of April 25 was an advertisement offering a prize of $100 for a satisfactory subject and title of a five-volume set of books. The publishers inserting the advertisement have carefully examined all the replies received, but regretfully have to report that in their judgment no one has suggested a satisfactory subject and title, but they desire to express through us their thanks for the interest taken by so many in the matter.

PAIRPOINT BROTHERS, 80 Dean Street, Soho Square, London, W., Eng., have brought out a second and considerably enlarged edition of Francis Pairpoint's interesting guide to "Antique Plated Ware," which is, practically, a history of old Sheffield plate, containing full particulars of close plating, many illustrations and upwards of fifty makers' marks and signs—useful information for collectors and dealers. The booklet may be had in cloth for 2*s.* 6*d.* and in paper at 1*s.* 1*d.*

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY have just ready "Five Months on a Derelict," by Edwin J. Houston, a story suited to young people, telling how a skipper took his nephews for a voyage to raise a derelict, and giving much information regarding the methods of doing away with these special dangers to navigation; also, "Christian Epoch Makers," by Professor H. C. Vedder, who has gathered together much religious, historical information which he presents in an interesting manner.

REILLY & BRITTON have just ready the new Frank L. Baum book—"Dorothy and the Wizard of Oz"—in which Mr. Baum's fascinating wonder-tale about the Land of Oz and its delightful fairy folk is continued. Dorothy, with a little boy companion "Zeb," and "Jim, the Cab-Horse," are swallowed up in an earthquake only to reach a strange "vegetable" land, whence, by the aid of the Wizard of Oz, they escape to the Land of Oz and renew acquaintance with all their old friends. The book contains 16 full-color pages and a number of black-and-white text pictures by John R. Neill.

E. P. DUTTON & CO. announce a work in two volumes, entitled "The North-West Passage—being the Record of a Voyage of Exploration of the Ship 'Gjoa,' in the Years 1903-07," by Roald Amundsen, with a supplement by Lieutenant Hansen. The work tells in detail the story of the seven men who in a herring boat about half the size of the ordinary American fishing schooner demonstrated that a navigable waterway exists along the whole northern coast of the American continent, a contention that Arctic explorers for four hundred years had vainly been trying to prove. The work is promised for September.

THE COCHRANE PUBLISHING COMPANY, Tribune Building, New York City, will publish on July 20 "Hawaiian Idylls of Love and Death," by the Rev. Herbert H. Gowen, a collection of attractive short stories concerned mainly with incidents bearing on the career of Kamehameha the Great, the Napoleon of the Pacific, who subdued one chief and one island after the other until, in 1809, he became master of the whole group of the Sandwich Islands. They will publish at the same time a story of life in the Southern States, entitled "Guy Hunter," by William W. Stark, a judge, banker and leader of the Democracy of Georgia.

CASSELL & COMPANY have in preparation a volume entitled "Napoleon and His Fellow Travellers," by Clement Shorter, author of "Immortal Memories," etc. Much of the material used by Mr. Shorter is taken from some rare books that have never been reprinted since their first publication, nearly a century ago. These include the "Narrative" of William Warden, and a rare pamphlet, privately printed by Lord Lyttleton, giving an account of interesting conversations on board the Northumberland that are known to few students of the epoch. The story of Napoleon's appearance and conversation at the time of his surrender is given by George Home in the "Diary of an Aristocrat," a book suppressed on publication.

CHATTO & WINDUS, London, will publish for the Florence Press a series of Florence Press Books to be printed in a special "Florence" type designed by Herbert P. Horne. The "trial impression" is to be a reprint of the earliest known guide-book to Florence, "Memoriale di molte statue e pitture, sono inclyta cipta di Florentia," published in 1510. The first of the series proper will be "The Fioretti, or Little Flowers of S. Francis." This is a newly revised version of Professor Arnold's translation, and will contain collotype reproductions of twenty-five contemporary drawings by an unknown hand, which are found in a manuscript preserved in the Laurentian library. Chaucer's "Romaunt of the Rose" will be the second book. The edition of each of the above three books will be 500 copies on paper, and ten copies on vellum.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY have just ready a new work by N. G. Lenotre, entitled "The Daughter of Louis XVI., Maria Theresa-Charlotte of France, Duchess d' Angouleme." The author has drawn material from contemporary documents, memoirs and diaries. The illustrations are a valuable addition to the book, and contain among other pictures of interest a portrait of the princess taken during her imprisonment in the tower of the temple. Under the unusual title of "The Peacock's Pleasaunce," just brought out by this firm, the following topics are presented to the lovers of gardens: "Ploroma," "A Beautiful World," "Of a Little Old House in Banffshire," "In Praise of Birds," "The Human Interest of a Garden," "Enigma," "The Haunted Wood," "An [Almost] Ideal City," and "Woods of the Garden."

THE AMERICAN UNITARIAN ASSOCIATION have in preparation an autobiography of the Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer, entitled "Some Memories." It begins with the story of his life as mill hand and blacksmith and Methodist preacher in his Yorkshire home in England, and his early struggles in this country in the last half century. The book will have as a frontispiece a photogravure portrait of Dr. Collyer. They also announce the third of the Rev. J. T. Sunderland's scholarly books on the Bible, entitled "The Bible, Its Origin, Growth, and Character." The first of these books answered the question, "What is the Bible?" and the second defined its place among the sacred books of the world. Another book on their list for early publication is an American edition of "Where the Light Dwelleth," a book of sermons lately printed in England that has attracted some attention.

HILLS & HAFELY CO., 27 East 22d Street, New York, have added a number of attractive new cards to their For the Empire series, suitable for the Christmas and New Year seasons, as birthday cards and wedding congratulations. The series includes four hundred varieties—dainty productions in chromogravure, photogravure, air-brush, mother-of-pearl, hand-painting and illuminating, etc., designed and produced at Ye St. Luke's Press in London. The Della Robbia Plaques in this series make particularly handsome presents. Their Bridge Scores and Progressive Whist outfits will be found attractive and profitable side-lines for any bookseller and stationer. Those who are delegated to get up children's parties will no doubt find the Hills & Hafely Company's Invitation Card For a Children's Party, twelve folding cards, two designs, each card in an envelope, an inexpensive and artistic aid in keeping the little guests informed of the date in a manner they are not likely to forget. In the line of Wall Texts, rubric motto cards, gift booklets, birthday books and religious booklets this firm have some novelties that will make even the blasé sit up.

HENRY HOLT & CO. will publish shortly a manual on "German Inflections," by Professor H. C. Bierwirth, of Harvard. As an additional means of bringing into greater prominence the resemblances and differences in inflections, the material is arranged in parallels, so that the student's eye is made to assist his mind. Every good teacher of German wishes to use German as the language of the classroom, but how can he do it with his short lesson hour and his often large classes, without neglecting the grammar and the literature? That is the question of the hour at modern language conventions, for there has never been such a strong feeling that the spoken language is well-nigh indispensable. That, too, is the question that Professor George M. Howe, of Colorado College, tries to answer in his "First German Book," which the Holts will issue at once. He avoids the pitfalls of the Natural Method by rigid grammatical drill, such as even the German child must have in acquiring his native tongue, and he has combined this drill with cleverly arranged exercises for composition and conversation. The book should have a distinct field even in the crowd of German grammar and drill books.

R. F. FENNO & COMPANY will publish shortly a book for young people of all ages, entitled "In Peanut Land," verses and pictures by Eva Dean, that put life and ginger into every peanut woozle beast that was ever conceived. They will bring out in August a story entitled "The Student Cavaliers," by J. R. Forrest a tale of a murder mystery and the consequent adventures which divides a band of students of Jefferson College, some of whom join the ranks of the Confederate army while the others fight on the Federal side; "A Damaged Reputation," by Harold Bindloss, a story full of incident and adventure; three wedding books arranged and decorated by Eva Dean—"The Bride's Souvenir Book," "Wooden Wedding Souvenir" and "The Bride's Anniversary Book," including the two foregoing books and tin, crystal, china, silver, golden and diamond wedding souvenir in one volume; also, "Toasts and Maxims," with illustrations. They announce for the fall a work entitled "The Mastery of Mind in the Making of a Man," by Henry Frank, in which the author traces the development of the body to the influence of the mind; "The Law of the Rhythmic Breath," by E. A. Fletcher, whose guide to health is as simple as it is ancient; "An Occult's Travels," by Wilby Reichel, author of "Der Heilmagnetismus, seine Beziehung zum Sonambulismus," etc.; also, a pocket edition of "The Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám," translated by Fitzgerald.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY have in preparation a monumental work on "Medieval Architecture," by A. Kingsley Porter, who for six years has constantly applied himself to the production of this history of the origin, growth and development of Gothic architecture, making several Asiatic and European trips required by the book since his graduation from Yale. It will be supplied with a bibliography, a list of monuments and upwards of 300 illustrations. They will publish along the same lines the second volume of Russell Sturgis's splendid "History of Architecture," and Charles H. Caffin's "The Appreciation of the Drama." In fiction they promise "Hilary on Her Own," by Mabel Barnes-Grundy, author of "Hazel of Heatherland;" "Thou Fool," by J. J. Bell, author of "Wee McGregor, a novel of Scottish-English society people; also "In Calvert's Valley," by the author of "The Sowing of Alderson Cree." Miss Helen A. Clarke, the author of "Browning's Italy," has written a companion volume, entitled "Browning's England," and also "A Child's Guide to Mythology," which will be the second book in the Child's Guide Series. Alfred Harcourt and Roscoe Crosby Gaige have compiled "Books and Reading" in the Humanity Essays, and Henry W. Whitney's "Life of Lincoln" will contain much unpublished early material. George Alfred Williams will add "The Chimes" to the well-known series of illustrated Dickens books, and Margaret Coulson Walker will combine "Bird Legend and Life" in an attractive volume which will have an interest for young and old. They will also import an exhaustive book entitled "Contemporary Ireland," by Paul Dubois, the nephew of the historian Taine.

THE MCCLURE COMPANY have in preparation "Ellen Terry's Recollections," an interesting contribution to the history of the stage, with portraits and other illustrations; the third and concluding volume of the "Reminiscences of Carl Schurz; "Reminiscences of a Ranchman," by Edgar Beecher Bronson, a fascinating narrative of the fast-fading life of the West; also, "The Boyhood of Lincoln," by Eleanor Atkinson, as touching and beautiful a record of Lincoln's early days as Miss Tarbell's "He Knew Lincoln." Their fall list of fiction is unusually strong, and contains "The Guest of Quesnay," by Booth Tarkington, said to be the best story yet written by the author of "Monsieur Beaucaire;" "The Riverman," by Stewart Edward White, author of "The Blazed Trail," etc.; "The Marquis of Loveland," by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, the delightful story of a marquis in America that is strongly reminiscent of "Lady Betty;" "The Point of Honor," by Joseph Conrad, a story of the Napoleonic era; "Round the Fireside," a collection of short stories, by Conan Doyle; "The Wild Geese," by Stanley Weyman, a romantic novel of adventure; "The Great Miss Driver," by Anthony Hope, a brilliant novel of English life; "A Japanese Spy," by Lancelot Lawton, a story of present-day Japan and its people; "Barry Gordon," by William Farquhar Payson; "The Gentle Grafter," a collection of Western stories by O. Henry; "Aunt Maud," by Ernest Oldmeadow, author of "Virginie," etc., a charming novel of delightful romance in which Ernest Oldmeadow surpasses his successful previous efforts; "The Distributors," by Anthony Partridge, an absorbing novel with something new and ingenious in the way of a plot; "9009," by James Hopper and Fred. R. Bechdolt, a story of prison life, authentic as to fact, that will prove a great sensation in its startling revelation of the present management of prisons; also, "Lynch's Daughter," by Leonard Merrick," an original and delightful story of "tainted millions."

HOUGHTON-MIFFLIN CO. have in preparation a new novel by Mary Johnston, author of "To Have and to Hold," etc., presenting a vivid picture of the exciting early years of the last century—of Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr, with old Virginia, with its stately homes, its beautiful women and romantic ideals as a background; "The Leaven of Love," by Clara Louise Burnham, the scene of which is at one of the famous winter resorts of Southern California, the plot having to do with the reconciliation of a charming but overwrought woman with her husband, a famous Boston organist; "The Lighted Lamp," by C. Hanford Henderson, an unconventional novel by the author of "John Percyfield;" "Though Life Us do Part," by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, a story of New England life that "pulsates with the successive emotions of a noble girl, wife and mother;" "The Fair Mississippian," by Charles Egbert Craddock, in which Miss Murfree vividly paints the romantic feudal life in the great house of a Mississippi cotton plantation with accompanying excitement from nocturnal prowlers and floods; "The Calico Cat," by Charles Miner Thompson, which deals with the mystifying entanglements and laughable misunderstandings caused by an impulsive assault on a calico cat by an eminently respectable New Englander;"'Ameedee's Son," by Harry James Smith, a brilliant story describing the career of an orphan boy among the French inhabitants of Cape Breton; also, "Peter Moor's Journey to Southwest Africa," by Gustav Frenssen, translated by Margaret M. Ward, the story of the experiences of a young German volunteer in one of the recent campaigns against natives of the German colonies in Africa. For the holidays they will have a holiday edition of Aldrich's "Marjorie Daw," with illustrations and decorations in color by John Cecil Clay; "Cupid's Almanac," by Oliver Herford and John Cecil Clay, a humorous year book on "hearticulture;" also, "Ye Butcher, Ye Baker, Ye Candlestick-Maker," verses and illustrations by Robert Seaver, humorously describing the occupations of the olden days with sly, satirical allusion to their modern counterparts.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

☞Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers shold take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

I WANT A MAN

A man who knows books and has enthusiasms.

A man who's had some experience in retailing—but not so much that he's convinced books can't be sold profitably.

A man on the other hand who believes that the same ingenuity and ability displayed in selling soaps and breakfast foods and fountain pens would revolutionize book-selling and reach more book-buyers than the dealer dreams of nowadays.

A man who wants to make some money for himself, but is satisfied to prove that he's making money for me before checking very heavily against these earnings.

If the right man reads this, he'll write promptly, giving his experience, qualifications, ideas, and the salary he would be willing to start on.

A Small Outlay With Large Possibilities

How to Help Your School Book Business

Booksellers can add to the volume of their business materially by developing carefully the sale of school books in their territory. While the margin of profit appears to be small it must be kept in mind that many schools, especially private schools, colleges and universities, order in quantities; the sale-season, though short, is "snappy" and there is a minimum of danger only in accumulating "dead" stock. When you make a customer for school books, be he the school principal or pupil, you have a customer for other supplies as well and very often you form business friendships with the "book-lovers" of the future.

To aid the bookseller in this branch of his business, we publish yearly an up-to-date "Educational List" containing the titles of current school books and their prices, together with a classified index of subjects. This catalogue we supply at a very low rate in quantities with the dealer's own imprint on front page—cheap enough to warrant any bookseller distributing it among all the educational institutions in his territory.

TERMS FOR IMPRINT EDITIONS

100 Copies $5.00 500 Copies $22.50 1000 Copies $40.00

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING OF

The Mystery of the Yellow Room

By GASTON LEROUX

PITTSBURGH DISPATCH:—"The plot of this remarkable story is so intricately woven and so elaborately developed that the reader's attention is positively enthralled from beginning to end."

ROCHESTER DEMOCRAT:—"It is worked out with a skill that continually keeps the reader puzzled and expectant, and is told with vivacity and sparkle."

BOSTON HERALD:—"For the many who delight in following the intricacies of crime and the avenging hand of justice, this book has rare charms."

ST. PAUL DAILY NEWS:—"How he solves the mystery is what readers of the 'Yellow Room' sit up nights and forget dinner hours to find out."

SALT LAKE TRIBUNE:—"Those fond of a detective story (and what reader is not?) will find this one fully up to the most exacting taste, and spiced to the most seasoned palate."

THE CLIQUE

(ESTABLISHED 1890)

The Recognized Organ of the Second-Hand Book Trade

THE CLIQUE is read by every bookseller who deals in old books in Great Britain, and by many in the United States and on the Continent.

THE CLIQUE advertises for about 4000 books every week; books which are wanted by its Members, and for which they are willing to pay a fair price.

THE CLIQUE is issued to booksellers only, its motto being "The Trade for THE TRADE." Booksellers can therefore report to our advertisers in confidence that they will not be "cut" by amateur dealers, who are not obliged to make their living by selling books.

THE CLIQUE is the best medium for all advertisements which appeal to booksellers, and its rates are lower than those of any tradepaper in the world.

SUBSCRIPTION 6s 6d ($1.50) per annum, post free; but as all subscriptions terminate in December subscribers may deduct 1½d (three half-pence) for each week of the year that has passed.

American Catalog

1164 pages, 8vo, half morocco (uniform with the preceding five-year volume). Price, $7.50

THIS latest volume of the permanent AMERICAN CATALOG is the seventh in the series, and like the one immediately preceding it is in octavo shape instead of quarto. Subscribers to previous volumes should order it early, as the edition is limited and the price will be advanced after a certain number is sold.

This new volume, together with the preceding one, covers the period from January 1, 1900, to January 1, 1908, and thus provides a complete index, in two alphabets, for the past eight years—a period during which practically all books now in active demand have either been first published or were reissued. Consequently, the two form of prime and practical value to booksellers and librarians.

an up-to-date Finding Index

We have also prepared a separate supplementary volume, uniform binding, which contains the full-title record material appearing in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY during 1905-06-07 (a separate alphabet for each year). This is offered at $6.00 per copy.

THE TOWER ANGEL

By MARY E. IRELAND

A beautifully told story coming from the skilfull pen of Mrs. Ireland that will prove refreshing to all girls and many grown-ups.

The daughter of a humble churchkeeper is popularly called the Tower Angel because of her beauty. She comes to the notice of a wealthy couple who carry her off on European travels—but therein lies the charm of the tale.

IN SHIP AND PRISON

By WILLIAM P. CHIPMAN

A rollicking tale of the Revolution as it was fought on the sea.

Captain Samuel Tucker is the hero, and there was no truer patriot or more valiant fighter on land or sea than he.

His prowess, his ingenuity, his capture by the British and his escape from their prisons will make every boy's heart swell with love of country and admiration for the brave Captain.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE WILLIAM R. JENKINS CO. call attention to their "Clifton-McLaughlin New French Dictionary"—French-English and English-French.

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY have just ready "Child Study for Sunday-School Teachers," which forms book five in their National Teacher-Training Institute Text-Book Series, edited by Rev. H. T. Musselman. The book is bound in two styles, in boards and in paper.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. have in their Astor edition of prose and poetry a choice of upwards of four hundred titles, suitable for supplementary reading in schools, selected from the works of standard authors, carefully printed and tastefully bound. In the department of fiction they have 210 volumes; in juvenile literature, 37 volumes; in history and biography, 18 volumes; in essays, 41 volumes; in the department of travel, 15 volumes; in works of reference, 6 volumes, in the department of science, 4 volumes, and in poetry and drama, upwards of 100 volumes.

DANA ESTES & Co. add this year to their Cabinet edition of the British poets fifteen volumes, comprising the poetical works of Thomas Hood, in three volumes; of Percy Bysshe Shelley, in three volumes; of Sir Walter Scott, in three volumes; of Keats, in two volumes; of Robert Burns, in two volumes; and of Thomas Gray and the Great Dramatists, each in one volume. The volumes are attractively illustrated with etchings and photogravures, portraits and scenes from drawings or paintings of celebrated artists. Commentary matter includes appendix to Burns' poems and a memoir to the poet, to which is added Dr. Currie's description of Burns; a memoir to Hood and notes to his poems; a preface and notes to the works of Shelley by Mrs. Shelley, and a memoir by James Russell Lowell. In addition, the works of Keats are edited by W. T. Arnold. To the works of Gray are added a "Life of Rev. J. Mulford," with notes, etc. The "Songs of the Dramatists" is edited by Robert Bell.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish shortly a new book by John Galsworthy, entitled "A Commentary," in which the author takes up the question of how far every man and woman in what are called comfortable circumstances should take upon their shoulders the burden of the poverty, cruelty and injustice of the world; "An Incarnation of the Snow," by F. W. Bain, author of "A Digit of the Moon" and "A Draught of the Blue," in which the author again casts his magic spell and conjures into being scenes of mystic and exotic loveliness, peopled by creatures of a haunting and often a terrible beauty—youths fair as gods, perilous enchantresses that are living flames of love; clinging, fair, and tender maidens with a tropical fervor and abandon that are truly Oriental, and Lamia-like beauties irresistibly and fatally captivating; also "Vital American Problems," by Harry Earl Montgomery, which, as its name implies, deals with problems of the first importance that now demand the most careful attention, and clamor for a solution, such as the Trust Problem, the Freight-rate Problem, Government Ownership, the Labor Problem, and the Negro Problem.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY

American Educational List, 1908

This List plans to include all textbooks used in American schools and academic institutions (not in universities, professional or technical schools) and books prepared especially for supplementary reading in primary and grammar schools; also classical and foreign texts, annotated for schools, officially recommended for school use, and such English texts as are required for college entrance examinations, 1906-11. Entries are under authors or editors; classical texts are entered under editor's name, foreign and English texts under author's name with editor's name in parenthesis. For revised subject classification, and for collective reference to classical authors entered under editors, see the second part of this List, following the main alphabet. The List does not include other English texts (except comprehensive school editions of Shakespeare); works of reference for schools (except dictionaries); nor teachers' aids (except teachers' manuals forming part of a textbook series). It is also intended to exclude imported textbooks, except such as are printed with American imprint or sold here in class quantities.

The List omits works out of print or superseded by newer editions, or works obsolete in the sense of being no longer sold in quantities for class introduction, but only in individual copies to schools having the book already in use. For such works see the American Educational List of previous years.

The price given is the "net" or introduction price made by the publisher (with close trade discount only), for which a copy is sent to a teacher or bookseller postpaid. Where an additional mailing charge is made for postage on single copies, an asterisk (*) precedes the price. Books priced at retail, with regular trade discount, are designated by a dagger (†) in the price column. When there is a blank in price column the publisher failed to give information. A double asterisk () designates books forthcoming and yet unpriced. New books issued since List of 1907 are designated by a single asterisk before title.

☞ Be particular in ordering to specify edition, and to give the full name of the book as entered in this List.
